the end was coming, and we were all able to move into the house with him for the last week."

He speaks warmly of the experience of being with his brothers and father there. Cali had an important concert event that his father was very interested in. Nurses and social workers explained to the family that often terminally ill patients will focus on such an event as a goal. The concert was over. The family had a big dinner together with his dad, and the next day Jack was gone.

Calandrello looks forward to Relay For Life as an important opportunity to keep memories alive. "It's a great way to get the family together and keep us a tight group," he says. "We'll celebrate our father by taking time to tell stories and share laughs."

He hopes too that they will see how others cope with the disease and loss.

His team, The Cali Crew, includes his two brothers Mathew and Michael, his nephew and niece Tucker and Sophia, and his step-mother Toni. These six Calandrello's are the core, but the effort includes many others contributing in many different ways.

Recently they held a one day fund raising event at Applebee's in Tewksbury. The general manager supported them by allocating a portion of the restaurant proceeds to the team. "We are really grateful to Applebee's and to the people who ate there that day," Calandrello says as he explains they raised $500 that day alone.

He emphatically believes we can find a cure for cancer. To that end, he has pledged his support to help spread the word about Relay For Life, and Mix 104.1 has joined him. For more information about Relay For Life or to make a donation, visit www.wilmingtonrfl.com or contact Ashlee.Iber@cancer.org or (781) 314-2652.

Stewart next Good Guy

Knights of Columbus, was filled with her friends and family and acquaintances. When she walked into the hall that night their presence told her that she had won.

"When I walked in the room, and it was full of people I knew," she said. Nevertheless, she said she was "shocked" to have won the award.

"It was just incredible," she said. "I never really expected anything like that."

The most moving portion of the evening was, for her, when members of the Garden Club, of which she is a member, each gave her a rose. She also enjoyed the remarks of her friends.

"There were just so many people there," she said.

Stewart said that she is merely one of many volunteers in Wilmington, however.

"There's so many of us, and I'm not really being modest: there's so many of us women around Wilmington that enjoy giving so much of their time," she said.

Stewart, like other

Wilmington residents, initially felt compelled to involve herself in town because of her children.

But her involvement continued. She said that she and a few others discovered that Wilmington schools remained closed at night. So she decided to do something about it.

"We began a community school program, which was extraordinarily successful," she said. "It was a really neat program."

She has also been a part of the library. Her family actively utilized the library back when it was housed in what is now the Fourth of July Building.

"We learned to really enjoy reading," she said, adding, "So, I've been active in the Friends of the Library and on the Board of Directors since, I guess, its very beginning."

And she was responsible for hiring the Town's first recreation director.

She said she enjoys visiting nursing homes, planting flowers with the garden club.

She attributed her desire for service to two things:

her family, and the general character of Wilmington.

"Wilmington is a really unique town," she said. "I suspect that there is a higher percentage of people involved in the community than any other town. It always has been."

"It really is a town full of good, caring people," she said.

Her sister, Barbara Carpenter, has also demonstrated a passion for volunteering. Charlotte referred to her as "the real good guy in my family."

Her son, Harry, and his family frequently visit Haiti. Her husband was a chairman of the Finance Committee. And her nephews, Danny and Jim Stewart, have been involved in the town.

The award, though, will not change her life, as she will continue to keep volunteering.

It is, to her, a symbol, a memento, a reminder.

"It really is an honor. I feel as though I represent all the women who are quietly volunteering," she said.

Employee insurance costs rising

Saves $500,000 for town

Amanda Geldhof
Crier Correspondent

WILMINGTON - The Board of Selectmen's agenda on Monday night covered a wide range of topics including changes to the Town Employee Health Insurance Plan, 4th of July celebrations and several appointments to various Town positions.

Employees using the town sponsored health insurance plans will see an increase in co-payment and deductible amounts beginning June first. One plan will be completely eliminated from the town's insurance plans.

According to a letter from Assistant Town Manager Jeffrey Hull to the Board of Selectmen, these changes will avoid approximately $500,000 in expected health insurance cost increases. The projected FY 2013 budget for health insurance costs for the Town is $10.3 million. Without the changes, the estimated cost would have been $10.8 million for FY 2013.

Beginning June first, subscribers will pay more for emergency room visits, surgical office visits, short-term rehab therapy, inpatient care, and both mail and retail prescriptions.

The Fourth of July Committee received permission to follow Wilmington tradition to use the Town Common for the annual festivities. The Committee also requested permission to limit the vendors near the Town Common to local vendors only.

Scott Garratt of the 4th of July Committee said last year there was an incident with an ice cream truck that would not leave. The Board granted permission to use the Town Common and to limit the activities to only local vendors.

Sandra Curtin of Wilmington Community Television announced the organization's celebration event in light of its upcoming 25th anniversary. The Board approved the use of Waltham Street in front of the WCTV studios on Sunday June 10. Curtin said the event will be free and open to the public. Please call 978-657-4066 for more information.

Town Manager Michael Caira announced several new appointments to Town boards and commissions: Gayle Regan and John Wallace to Elderly Services Commission, Charlotte Stewart to Library Trustees, J. Christopher Neville to Planning Board, Robert LaVita to Water and Sewer Commission, and Diane Harvey to Historical Commission.

"pretty amazing," he says, "it means a lot to us as a family."

Mark Haubner owned a Kawasaki Ninja motorcycle that he put 18,000 miles on in just a few short years. He also owned multiple Toyota Corollas, all from 1985 or 1986. They were his favorite car according to Shawn, "just one of those loud cars young kids like to mess around with."

Not only does Haubner's love for motorcycles make his memorial ride special but also the affiliation the New England Organ Bank. The night of Haubner's death, his family was asked if they would be willing to donate his organs, and they were unaware that this was something he had already planned for. Haubner had registered as an organ donor when he received his license, and once gaining this knowledge, his family did not hesitate to donate. That night his liver was given to a patient in need, the next day both his kidneys were donated, his heart valves were given to patients in need, and both of Haubner's corneas were given to a patient in California. Doctors also saved Haubner's bone tissue, which the family was told could save the lives of 50 to 60 people.

In order to honor Haubner's selfless donation to people in need, each participant in the Memorial Ride will donate $25 to the New England Organ Bank. Each year the family has been able to donate between $400 and $500 to the not-for-profit organization, which they know would make Haubner proud.

This year the ride is being held on Haubner's birthday which makes it extra special to his family. They will also be adding a new stop to the ride this year. As always they will begin at Haubner's parent's home, then riding to the cemetery where he is buried, and then to Wakefield lake, one of Haubner's favorite places to ride his bike, according to his brother. They then will ride for the first time to Honda North in Danvers, where Haubner used to be employed; a granite bench was recently placed there to honor Haubner, and the riders will stop there to take a moment to remember him. The riders will then ride on to Hampton Beach and back to the Haubner home where there will be a cook-out for the remainder of the day. "We want to get people together to remember Mark," says Haubner.

The ride will begin at 9:30 am at 24 Lucaya Circle, Wilmington. Haubner says anyone who wants to join the ride or just spend time with the family during the day is more than welcome.

Mike Sztella (l) and Brian Borselli both of Cummings Properties remove the lifting straps as the memorial stone to Officer Jack Maguire is set into place at the Post Office on Washington Street. Inside the Post Office will be a bronze plaque embedded in the wall which was presented at a ceremony recently at Woburn High School.

BUSINESS TRAVEL EXPENSES

The Internal Revenue Service has dropped its plan to eliminate the use of a "high-low" reimbursement method for business travel expenses. That allowed companies to reimburse employees for lodgings, meals and incidentals according to whether travel was in a high- or low-cost area of the country. The approved rates are now $242 a day in high-cost areas and $163 in low-cost areas.

Self employed individuals cannot use this method for deducting meals away from home, but must follow the GSA per diem rate for a particular locality; lodging expenses must be substantiated.

Standard mileage rates for 2012 are 55.5 cents a mile for business driving, 23 cents a mile for medical and moving expenses and still only 14 cents a mile for driving as a charitable volunteer (this figure is set by Congress, not the IRS).

Employees who are reimbursed for business driving under an "accountable" plan are not taxed on the reimbursement.

Thanks from Forte family

Dear Wilmington,

Please accept my sincerest thanks for the outstanding outpouring of support and love last Sunday at the WOW 5k Run for Wilmington/ Kim Forte walk. It is with great pride and honor I thank you all for keeping Kim's legacy and memory alive! Kim made every day count, by a smile a wave or a gesture of being good neighbor. Kim inspired, motivated and helped. It's so amazing to see how infectious these small things are, yet now so many of us realize that these simple things can help make the day of even the saddest soul. Kim and I spent many years together, all the time she never forgot a quote she used in her high school yearbook, "it's nice to be important, but more important to be nice." I can see this reflected in Sunday's turnout!

Kim I love and miss you with every breath!

Thank you WOW! Special thanks to Michelle Bryan & Jomarie O'Mahony, you two are very special, and all the amazing ladies of WOW, you have just begun to change the world!

Thank you Wilmington

Thank you everyone,

Lou and Tim Forte

Delayed Chapter 90 funds stall Brown Street Bridge repairs

Dear Editor:

Despite the fact that House and Senate members have each voted in support of a $200 million Chapter 90 program for fiscal year 2013, passage of this important legislation has been delayed by six weeks, lodged in a conference committee that has been unable to reach agreement on other issues unrelated to Chapter 90.

Please call Senator Finegold and Representatives Adams and Miceli today and ask them to end the delay and move the $200 million Chapter 90 bond legislation immediately.

Under state law, cities and towns are supposed to receive formal notice of their Chapter 90 allocation by April 1 of each year, allowing for adequate time to plan and use their Chapter 90 funds during the entire construction season. Communities cannot sign contracts and commit their Chapter 90 funds until they receive these April 1 letters of authorization from the state. Because of the failure to pass the Chapter 90 bond bill, cities and towns have only received preliminary letters that will not become official until the bond bill and a "terms bill" are both signed into law. The 6-week delay is stalling projects and shortening the construction season for communities across the state. If this continues, important projects could be delayed until next year, driving up costs and adding to the deterioration of local roads.

The problems started earlier this year. Even though the Administration announced it would be filing a $200 million Chapter 90 bond bill last January, the legislation was not filed with the Legislature until mid-March. Further complicating matters, the Administration's bill included several major sections in addition to the $200 million for Chapter 90, including $1.3 billion for state projects and language creating a new infrastructure bank.

Concerned that this larger $1.5 billion bill could slow down passage of the Chapter 90 component, on March 22 the Joint Committee on Transportation separated the legislation into two parts and issued a swift favorable report for a Chapter-90-only bill to fast-track it through the Legislature. The House immediately acted, ushering the bill through two committees and passing it with a unanimous vote on March 28, beating the April 1 deadline, a step deeply appreciated by local officials across the state.

The Senate then opted to hold another hearing on the legislation on April 5, and on April 12 the full Senate amended the Chapter-90-only bill to add back the $1.3 billion in state projects. The House, which had not debated the $1.3 billion in state projects, urged the Senate to agree to the Chapter-90-only bill immediately, with the $1.3 billion state project bill to be debated later in the session. The Senate held firm in its position and appointed a conference committee to resolve the impasse. Unfortunately, the $200 million Chapter 90 bill has been stuck in the conference committee since that time.

Further Delays Will Shorten the Chapter 90 Construction Season.

Bird and Blooms

by Gerry Duggan

Orioles, Robins, Eagles and more

Bird activity has certainly picked up and Saturday May 12th was World Migratory Bird Day. Like clockwork the Baltimore oriole returned from Central America around May 6th, in Wilmington and surrounding areas, which it has done for as long as I can remember.

A pair of orioles started to build a nest across the side street next to my house. In order to attract birds to my yard, I usually tie bushes and flowers with strips of old bed sheets. These strips are left on many plants from one year to the next. Because of the weather, these strips become frayed and thready by the time spring arrives. This pair of orioles started pulling these threads for the past several days. I even pull some threads and drape them over the branches, which the orioles have been taking allowing me an opportunity to see them flying to this tree. The male oriole was at the top of another tree on Mother's Day.

The oriole is one of the most beautiful summer visitors we have with its bright orange and dark black coloring, females are rather drab in comparison. The female weaves a hanging bag type nest with the threads and other string material, and always looks gray.

If any reader comes across an oriole nest on the ground that they do not wish to keep, please give me a call. I did have an oriole nest that had fallen in my yard in the late summer, kept over the winter and in the spring I recycled it by tearing it apart and leaving it on a bush so the arriving orioles could use the material for their new nest.

Other spring arrivals that I have seen include the house wren, catbird and hummingbird. There have many other small birds that will not pose for me so that I can hopefully identify them. I call myself a bird observer instead of a bird watcher. Someday I may get a good pair of binoculars so that I can spend more time watching and be able to identify more birds; on second thought maybe I won't.

Of course the robins are very prevalent. It seems as though every patch of grass has one or two, even along curbsides, where they risk being hit by cars. Robin nests are everywhere; cousin Betsy had a robin build a nest on top of a floodlight bulb in just one day. Within two days the nest fell off the bulb, fortunately no eggs were in the nest. Robins can have two clutches of eggs each season, building a new nest for each. They do not use a nest twice.

I had mentioned in my last column the lack of blue jays. That has since changed and I now have several in around #76.

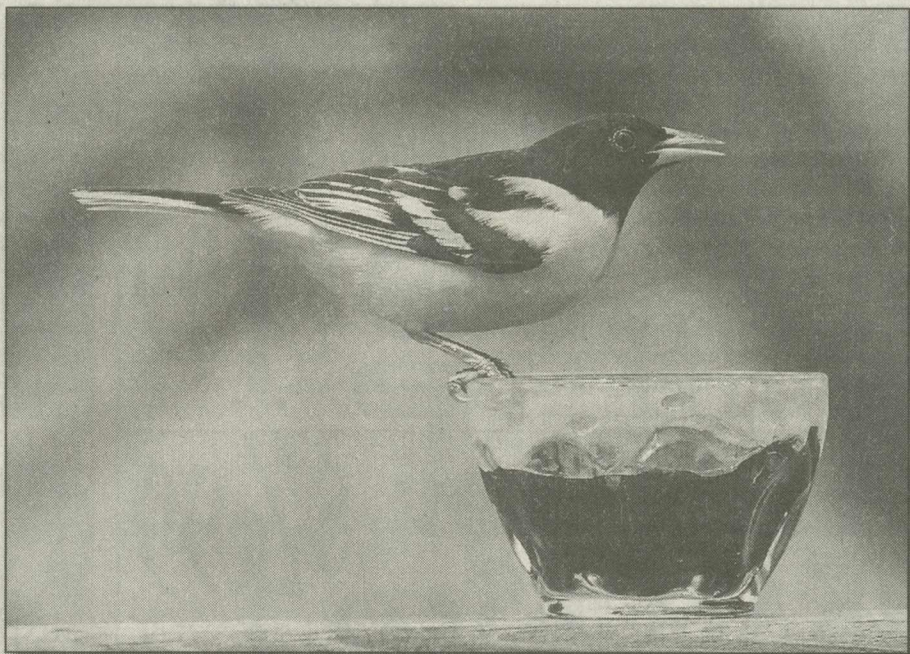

The male goldfinches have dressed themselves in their splendid canary yellow breeding plumage. I hope if readers are up early they will step outside in the early morning and listen to the sounds. The robins, catbirds, tufted titmice and orioles are all singing and chirping. The robins especially, sing at sunset into dusk at this time of year. I have mentioned before, when you go out into your yard, to look up as well as around. There is a lot of bird activity overhead, some you can hear before you can see. You can hear the Canada geese honking before you can see them. Sometimes one can hear the hawks screaming or the crows calling as they harass the hawks. Other birds are silent as they fly overhead including the great blue heron, turkey vultures and many more.

Another silent flyer before and after dark, although not a bird, is the brown bat. We have to hope the brown bat makes a comeback from the disease that has decimated their colonies. The brown bat feeds on flying insects and our lives will be affected adversely if their population decline continues.

Another non-bird creature that flies is the honeybee. The honeybee is having problems with colony collapse. If a solution is not found, we are going to have a big problem with food production. Almost all fruits and vegetables need bees to pollinate to produce. The problem is being studied and there is the possibility that pesticides used in agri-business are causing the problem. Recently, news reports interview "experts" speaking for the companies that produce the pesticides, which claim that their products are not causing the problem. Hmmm, seems that 50 years ago the "experts" at that time were saying that DDT was not causing the problems related to birds where bald eagles, ospreys any many other birds eggs thinned to the point that the shells would break before chicks were hatched. The problem with the eagles was so bad that there were no breeding pairs in the United States except Alaska.

Fifty years after DDT was banned, the bald eagle has made a remarkable recovery. While we do not have any nesting bald eagles in Wilmington, we have had many sightings and nesting eagles as close as the Lowell/Lawrence area of the Merrimac River. It is not too late to Google Decorah Eagles where you can watch a 24/7 live web cam of an eagle's nest in Decorah, Iowa. The 3 eaglets, which hatched in mid-March, are now almost as large as the adults and just starting to self-feed. There is several more weeks before the eaglets fledge (leave the nest). This is the 2nd year of this web cam and more 250 million have logged in to view.

Baltimore Oriole

Check it out.

Reminder to readers to keep those suet feeders filled and protected from larger predators like the fisher cat, which raided a feeder in Tewksbury recently because the protective cover was taken off.

The three common local woodpeckers, the downy, the hairy and the red-bellied, will be bringing their newly fledged young shortly. The other local bird in the woodpecker family, the northern flicker, is nesting across the same side street beside my house in a dead elm tree. The flicker is not a regular at the suet feeder, preferring to feed on ant nests. You may see them along the side of the road, in those grassy strips between the road and sidewalk. There is a large dead elm tree down behind my house, where the woodpeckers halved chiseled out nest cavities. Since woodpeckers make new cavities each year this tree has many used cavities, which are being used by house sparrows, tufted titmouse and the chickadee. If you are so inclined and have some pine boards around, you can Google a cavity bird's name followed by 'nest box' and you can get all the information you need to build a few birdhouses.

Don't forget to put those hummingbird feeders out where you can view them easily. Within 15 minutes after hanging my hummingbird feeder, a hummingbird was feeding. No need to buy the liquid used. The mixture is 4 parts water, 1 part sugar. Heat, dissolve sugar, cool and fill.

The last item I want to mention is something of a downer. It's about timing and what we perceive as the cruelty of nature but we have to remember this is nature. I was at a cemetery on Saturday May 12th when I heard a crow commotion and thought that it must be hawk nearby. After a short period of time, the crow calls became louder and turned toward the sounds, when a large hawk flew out of a pine tree, followed by several crows. The hawk flew toward us and was carrying something in its talons, it flew to a branch above our heads, tried to land, lost its grip on its prey, which fell to the roadway in front of us. The hawk took off followed by the crows. I went over to the prey and saw it was a young owl. From its size, markings and checking Petersons field guide, I would say it was a saw-whet owl. It must have been old enough to come out of its cavity nest; otherwise the hawk wouldn't have been able to catch it. I thought of the irony of the predator catching the predator and felt some sadness because the owl was so young but, have to remember that this nature. We love the beauty of nature; this is the other side, survival of the fittest.

As I wrote before, look up as well as around.

Neville extends thanks

To the Editor

To all of the hundreds of people who turned out for my retirement party last Thursday, I wish to express my sincere gratitude for a night that I will never forget. Never in the past 34 years have I been prouder to have represented the Town of Wilmington and its Police Department.

I have relished the opportunity to have served the Town and its residents over the years and together we have built countless personal friendships, business relationships, and trust between the Community and the Police Department.

In addition to all the Speakers and Presenters, I wish to specifically thank Chief Michael Begonis and Administrative Assistant Susan O'Neill for their countless hours in organizing the evening's events. To my many friends in the Rotary Club, Wilmington Community Television, my Fellow Good Guys, Representatives of the Various Town Agencies and Departments, Senator Bruce Tarr, Representative Jim Miceli, Town Manager Mike Cairra, and Fr. Philip Earley and to all of my personal friends who were there, I am so appreciative of your attendance and friendship.

I especially wish to express my thanks to the well over 100 brother and sister Police Officers and Law Enforcement Officials from Wilmington and from throughout the Region who came out in such great numbers to honor me with their presence. Together we have accomplished many successes.

Collectively, you provided me and my family a night that will forever be remembered. I am honored to have served with you and for you. Sincerely,
J. Christopher Neville

Boy Scout troop travels to Gettysburg

TEWKSBURY - Boy Scout Troop 47 spent four days of April vacation (the 19th through the 22nd) visiting Gettysburg, Pennsylvania. Eleven scouts and three adults drove eight hours to Gettysburg and visited many historic sites and museums.

While there, they learned a lot about the battle of Gettysburg as well as the Civil War.

During a two-hour bus tour, they were able to walk on the battlefield and see some of the hundreds of monuments the different veteran groups built over 100 years ago. It gave them a great view of how the battle was fought over those three days in July 1863.

The newly built Visitors Center has an incredible cyclorama of the battlefield, painted by Paul Philippoteaux in 1883. There is also a museum in the Visitors Center that covers the entire war.

The scouts also visited the Gettysburg National Cemetery, where President Lincoln gave his Gettysburg Address. The Scouts were interested to learn that the President was not the main speaker that day. It was in fact Edward Everett, one-time Governor of Massachusetts, a statesman and a renowned orator, who gave a two hour speech describing the battle. After he was done President Lincoln stood up and took two minutes to read what would later become known as the Gettysburg Address.

The Scouts also visited the Battle of Gettysburg Diorama, the Hall of Presidents, and Train Museum.

They camped at the Artillery Ridge Campground and had a civil war re-enactor come and talk with them about what a Union soldier's life was like during that time.

Troop 47 highly recommends anyone interested in Civil War history make the trip.

Troop 47 is chartered by the Tewksbury Congregational Church at 10 East Street in Tewksbury. If you would like more information about Troop 47, please contact Scoutmaster Michael Puleo at 978-640-8861 or mikep54653@aol.com.

Lincoln Statue: 'Return Visit' Statue

A statue of Abraham Lincoln talking with a visitor stands outside the David Wills House in Downtown Gettysburg. It's known as one of the most true-to-life depictions of Lincoln ever, as the sculptor used both face and hand molds to create the 16th president.

It has over 50 very active members, who provide many civic services to area residents. It has helped at soup kitchens, food drives, town clean-up projects and other public services. The troop has produced over 60 Eagle Scouts over the last 10 years. Eagle Scout is the highest ranking a Boy Scout can achieve. Troop 56 meets weekly at the Congregational Church in Wilmington.

Cigarettes easily cause fires

To the idiot who threw a cigarette out of your car at the Market Basket plaza at 2:30 on Sunday afternoon, you should know it took 3 people and large coffee to put out the fire it caused in the mulch. Smokers: the world is NOT your ashtray.

South Fire Station

"Way to go!" Tewksbury Town Meeting for approving the money needed to re-open the South Fire Station. State Legislature approves the VALOR Act

House passed legislation today to improve benefits for Vets

BOSTON - The Massachusetts House of Representatives today passed "The Valor Act" - new legislation that will expand benefits and increase access to a range of services for veterans, active-duty military and their families. The bill passed the Senate unanimously May 3.

"There is nothing greater we can do for our veterans than give them as much assistance as possible when they return home," said Finegold. "The jobless rate for young veterans returning from Iraq and Afghanistan is double that of their peers. They need educational and employment support. This bill makes money available to veteran-owned businesses and gives academic credit for a student's prior military service. The best way to repay our vets and their families for their service is to give them the chance to build a successful and prosperous life upon return to the U.S."

"Every Massachusetts resident owes a huge debt of gratitude to the brave men and women who proudly serve our great nation to preserve the many freedoms we all enjoy but too often take for granted," said Senator Tarr (R-Gloucester), who along with the Senate Republican Caucus proposed several amendments to the legislation. "With Memorial Day fast approaching, I cannot think of a better way to show our appreciation than to do everything we can to enhance the educational and employment opportunities available to our veterans and to ensure that the Commonwealth provides for their families' needs."

Representative Jim Miceli said the House passed the bill Wednesday afternoon. Miceli told the Crier that he supports the measure "absolutely, unequivocally."

"It makes an awful lot of sense. Some of the things that it addresses are things veterans have been asking for," said Miceli. "The veterans know that they always have a friend with me. I have a 100% voting record on behalf of veterans' since I walked in that building 35 years ago."

The bill works on many fronts to help veterans and active military members improve business, educational and housing opportunities. For example, through the formation of public/private partnerships, it facilitates seed money for the start-up and expansion of veteran-owned businesses. It also promotes the participation of disabled-veteran business owners in public construction and design projects.

The legislation also removes certain educational obstacles by requiring the state's public institutions of higher learning to adopt new policies and procedures for awarding proper academic credit for a student's prior military training, coursework and experience.

The bill also makes it easier for the children of military personnel to transfer between school districts and states, joining 42 other states in the Interstate Compact on Educational Opportunity for Military Children.

To help ease the costs of housing, utilities, medical services and food for Gold Star Families, the bill expands eligibility for the Massachusetts Military Family Relief Fund. It also eliminates the $2,500 Property Tax Exemption Cap for Gold Star Spouses.

The bill also helps the courts better recognize veteran issues by making sure veterans and service members facing criminal complaints have a properly recorded military history and are considered for diversion and treatment options if eligible.

The Valor Act also does the following:

- Requires the Department of Veterans' Services commissioner to be a veteran;

- Allows for at least a 90-day license renewal extension for service members returning from active duty for certain Department of Public Safety licenses, such as engineering and firefighter licenses;

- Creates a local option property tax exemption for veterans who volunteer in their community, with a maximum credit rate equal to the minimum wage and a total exemption not exceeding $750; and

Senator Rush (D-West Roxbury), Senate Chair of the Joint Committee on Veterans and Federal Affairs and a lieutenant in the United States Navy, spearheaded the bill's passage in the Senate.

Rush returned from a 10-month deployment to Iraq as an intelligence officer in the Navy Reserve in December.

"Military families have to endure many personal sacrifices and hardships when their loved ones are deployed for months or years at a time," said Senator Tarr. "The provisions adopted by the Senate today will offer some measure of support for these families while honoring all of those who serve."

Senator Tarr on 'Secure Communities' in Mass.

BOSTON - Senate Minority Leader Bruce Tarr (R-Gloucester) released the following statement today, as federal officials began implementing the Secure Communities program in Massachusetts:

"The implementation of Secure Communities is a positive and productive step for public safety in Massachusetts, because information is one of the most important tools law enforcement has to protect all of us. Many people in law enforcement, including our sheriffs, have testified about the need for Secure Communities to help identify violent criminals who are in this country illegally. It's unfortunate it's taken the Obama Administration so long to act, but finally the Department of Homeland Security is giving law enforcement officials access to this vital tool despite the failure of the Patrick Administration to expedite the availability of this important program in our state.

Secure Communities has already proven its worth in other states, and has been successfully utilized on a pilot basis in the city of Boston. When Joao Brito was arrested last summer after vandalizing a vehicle, Boston police were able to use the Secure Communities program to determine that he was not only in the United States illegally, but also wanted by Dutch authorities for sexual abuse of children and human smuggling. Law enforcement should have access to every available resource to protect public safety, and the Brito case is just one example of how Secure Communities can help identify and remove some of the worst criminals from our streets."

Courtney Downing awarded Believe and Achieve Scholarship from Cumberland Farms

FRAMINGHAM - Sixty-eight talented high school seniors from across Massachusetts have been awarded Cumberland Farms Believe and Achieve Scholarships this year. Among them is Courtney Downing of Tewksbury who will attend University of New Hampshire.

Each winner will receive $1,000 toward college expenses from the convenience store retailer. This is the sixth consecutive year that Cumberland Farms awarded the scholarships to promising students across its service area. As part of the company's Corporate Giving Initiative, the Believe and Achieve Scholarship is open to students entering college and who live within 30 miles of any Cumberland Farms outlet. While the initiative takes academic performance into account, the award also considers the student's financial need.

"More than ever, today's high school graduates deserve the college education of their dreams without finances standing in the way," said Cumberland Farms President Ari Haseotes. "We are proud to help these accomplished students ease their costs through our Believe and Achieve scholarship program."

Cumberland Farms is awarding a total of $130,000 in scholarships this year to students across its service area. In addition, the retailer sponsors scores of individual school fundraisers every year, supporting programs for kindergarten students through high school, as part of its corporate giving mission.

Cumberland Farms will again begin accepting Believe and Achieve Scholarship applications for the graduation class of 2013 in October. Eligible high school seniors are encouraged to visit www.cumberlandfarms.com, as well as any Cumberland Farms' store location for further information.

Cumberland Farms makes life easier for busy people every day. School shock scandal prompts teacher to lobby lawmakers

BOSTON - Gregory Miller, a former teacher assistant at the Judge Rotenberg Center, and Cheryl McCollins, a mother whose son was shocked 31 times at the school, hand-delivered more than 215,000 signatures from his petition on Change.org to Massachusetts lawmakers on Wednesday. They asked the legislators to ban the practice of electric-shocking special needs students, saying this practice is unique to Canton's Judge Rotenberg Center.

Miller and McCollins then met with the offices of several Massachusetts legislators, including Speaker Robert DeLeo, Sen. Brian Joyce, Sen. Michael Rodrigues, and Rep. Kay Khan.

"We came to the State House in Boston today armed with 215,000 signatures from my Change.org petition to give a voice to the students being shocked at the JRC," said Miller. "We will continue reaching out to lawmakers until they stop what the UN calls torture from taking place in Massachusetts."

Shawsheen Tech on to Nationals!

Students earn 18 medals at Skills USA State finals

BILLERICA – Shawsheen Tech students earned 18 medals at the SkillsUSA state finals on April 27 in Marlborough.

In all, nine students earned a trip to the national finals in June while four others earned silver and six brought home bronze medals. The national finals are held annually in Kansas City.

More than 70 students from Shawsheen Tech earned the right to compete at the state competition.

Christine O'Brien of Burlington was a state champion in medical assisting. A senior in the Health Technologies program, O'Brien is a state champion for the second straight year. Last year, O'Brien won a national gold medal in medical assisting.

Two teams also emerged as winners.

In entrepreneurship, Business Technology students Melissa Miller, Nora Brown and Rebecca McLaren, all juniors from Wilmington, joined sophomore Ryan Cormier of Tewksbury, on the winning team.

These students created a start-up business for handmade jewelry complete with a business plan, marketing strategies and advertisements.

The trio of Brianna Lynch, Jessica Lloyd and Megan Walsh, all seniors from Tewksbury, took home gold in Career Path Showcase for Arts and Communications. The girls did a project on distracted driving, surveying the junior class before presenting statistics on accidents caused by distractions such as texting and driving. The project also included a visit to the school by state trooper Michael Miskel. Students signed pledges to stop texting and driving as part of the trio's award-winning project.

Shawsheen's second-place finishers included senior Keenan Goodwin of Tewksbury in culinary arts, junior Nicholas Schaufus of Tewksbury in masonry, junior Ryan Dozois of Tewksbury in technical drafting and freshman Colleen Wait of Tewksbury in Career Choice Commentary for freshman.

Wait will compete at the national finals as a wildcard entry when the gold medal winner in the category could not attend nation-

Third-place performances went to sophomore Jenna Brown of Billerica in First Aid/CPR, junior Kaitlyn Gordon of Tewksbury in prepared speech, senior Francesco Catizone of Tewksbury in Related Technical Math and the Career Path Showcase trio of senior Nicole Sessa of Tewksbury, senior Shaun Kennedy of Billerica and junior Corey Stumpf of Billerica for their portable solar recharging station that they built for use in the Relay for Life fund-raiser that was held locally.

Of the 18 medalists from Shawsheen, seven were juniors, two were sophomores and one was a freshman.

Bike helmets: a no-brainer

With a warmer than normal spring, there are more and more bicyclists on the roads and trails throughout the Massachusetts. The Brain Injury Association of Massachusetts (BIA-MA) urges riders of all ages to wear a bike helmet.

More than 50,000 bike-related head injuries and 630 deaths occur in the United States each year. Properly fitted helmets can decrease the risk of head and brain injury by as much as 88 percent. Massachusetts law requires anyone age 16 or under to wear a helmet while riding a bike, scooter, skateboard or while inline skating.

"When wearing a helmet, make sure it is worn correctly - down in front," says BJ Williams, Manager of BIA-MA's Prevention Programs. "Prevention begins with parents, who serve as role models for their children by wearing a helmet themselves."

BIA-MA offers a series of prevention fact cards on such topics as helmet safety, booster seats, sports concussion, pedestrian safety and teen driving. For more information or to order a set of fact cards, call 800-242-0030 or visit www.biama.org.

A properly fitted helmet:
- Helmet straps should meet in a "V" under each ear.
- Chin strap should be snug under chin.
- Helmet should be worn low on forehead.
- Helmet should not move side to side or back and forth.

The Brain Injury Association of Massachusetts (BIA-MA) is a private, non-profit organization that provides support to brain injury survivors and their families, offers programs to prevent brain injuries, and educates the public on the risks and impact of brain injury. The association advocates for legislation to prevent brain injuries, including seatbelt and helmet laws.

Upcoming events at Tewksbury Historical Society
Henry David Thoreau returns

TEWKSBURY - "Henry David Thoreau" will be performed by Richard Smith on May 19 at 7:00 p.m. Tickets are available for $9 at the door. Smith's performance will be at the Tewksbury Senior Center located at 175 Chandler Street.

Thoreau took a field trip down the Concord River, through the new City of Lowell canal to the Merrimack and up to Nashua New Hampshire. He then doubled back and paddled the entire length of the Merrimack River to the Atlantic Ocean. He returned back up the Merrimack and to the Concord River past the shores of Tewksbury.

Come prepared to ask Mr. Thoreau questions about his time on this trip. Thoreau will entertain you with his observations and thoughts from the 1800s.

All income from this show will go to supporting the Society's Building and Acquisitions Fund. Bring a friend and enjoy a night of Tewksbury history.

The Society Store will be open, and there will be refreshments after the performance.

You may talk and meet Mr. Smith after his performance.

May 17 marks the start of a local Tewksbury history course.

Tewksbury Historical Society and Community Services, Adult Education Division offers to residents and school staff a local history course about Tewksbury, entitled "Pre-history to 1799" (Course#5). The instructor will be David E. Marcus, President of the Society. The course will feature Native American history, pre-Tewksbury era, the founding of British Tewksbury and finishes with the Massachusetts Revolutionary War battles of Lexington/Concord, Bunker Hill, and Evacuation Day.

This course will meet four evenings in a classroom, with three field trips additionally.

While this is tailored to Community Education students ($60), a single (1) graduate school credit from Endicott College is offered ($140) to anyone interested.

Classes are on Thursdays, May 17, 24, 31, and June 7 from 6:30-8:30 p.m. in room B-13 at Tewksbury Memorial High School. Field trips will be on Saturdays, May 19, 25-31*, and June 2; all from 10:00 a.m. - 3:00 p.m. [*This self-guided field trip may be done anytime from May 25 - May 31.]

Some museums may charge admission. Transportation is the responsibility of the students. For more information visit the Office of Community (Adult) Education located at the Administrative School Offices, 139 Pleasant Street or call 978-640-7831 for more information.

On June 5, there will be an Historic Photo Gallery opening.

Jon Ryan's Pubs, located at 1795 Main Street, has joined the Historical Society and will feature historical photographs of Tewksbury. Four different sections of this exhibit feature Tewksbury history. On June 5, the Society will celebrate the completion and opening of this historic picture gallery at the Pub.

Starting at 6:00 p.m., members and the public may gather in the lobby to take a guided tour through the various sections. The photographs celebrate Tewksbury's history through the first section featuring "then" pictures of Tewksbury High School's sports and cheerleaders from the 1930s through the 1950s.

This section contrasts with a set of "now" photographs about sports from the 21st century. It will change periodically when we go through the first year of the new Tewksbury High School.

The second section features the patriotic parades from 1934 (200th Anniversary), 1984 (250th Anniversary), and 1976 (200th Anniversary of the Revolutionary War) parade of Tewksbury. See if you can pick out landmarks in the various parades that were held on Main Street.

Do you recognize anyone in the pictures? The Society will be asking for the local history detectives to come and see if they can identify any people in the picture.

The next to last section feature a set of pictures titled "Then and Now." Contrasting photographs feature some of the oldest photographs and features of Tewksbury history.

The last section displays old bicycle photographs from Tewksbury's that match the Pub's display of bicycle ornaments. Come and take in the gallery and have a dinner at the new Jon Ryan's Pubs.

Field project back on track

Suzanne Sullivan, a previous member of the Wilmington Board of Selectmen and one of the 10 appellants to the original turf field notice of intent, brought to the Commission's attention that the Andover Street site was not considered a riverfront area.

On May 9, Brock presented another option for off-site mitigation. The town owns a parcel of land on a cul-de-sac at the northern end of Nathan Street where it plans to replace the existing gravel, lawn and part of the sidewalk with natural trees and shrubs. Several residents along Nathan Street voiced concerns regarding demolition of the sidewalk, snow removal issues and flooding. "I walk the sidewalk every day."

"There are children that play along the sidewalk; it is not underused."

Dianne Ellen of the High School Building Committee suggested that the Town complete the mitigation at the first two sites then redo the calculations to make sure that removing the sidewalk is necessary.

"I think it would be reasonable for the commission to put in a condition," Brock said. "We want to maximize the first two sites and then reassess the third site after we have done that."

Brock assured residents that communications regarding the project would be clear and available.

"We would try to do everything in the public purview," she said. "We would much rather have you involved in the process than come to a meeting unhappy."

The Conservation Commission issued an Order of Conditions on May 11, which the Commission's approval of the project is contingent upon. According to the order, "the applicant, the owner, any person aggrieved by this order, any owner of land abutting the land subject to this order, or any ten residents of the city or town [Wilmington]" may appeal the order the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection within 10 days. May 21 is the last day to submit the required documentation to appeal the order.

The Town recently rescinded the NOI for the new turf football field after 10 residents and an abutter appealed the NOI.

"What we did was we tried to learn from that process," Brock said at the April 25 meeting.

Sullivan congratulated the Town and project presenters on the presentation of the project and many of its improvements to the turf field NOI. George Lingenfelter, one of the ten residents that appealed the turf field NOI, said he plans to send correspondence to the MassDEP regarding the Activity and Use Limitation set on the property because of the oil under the school.

loss. Taunia says Tim Gunn, a fashion consultant and TV personality perhaps best known for his participation in the show Project Runway, was genuinely down-to-earth, adding, "He was awesome - really sweet. And he knew who I was without my having to introduce myself." For the appearance, the show had Taunia come out in a dress without any shaping garments on, and then she and Tim presented the different garments. Of course, she then later donned the garments in the same dress for the "big reveal."

During the segment,

Taunia says she was totally comfortable and was pleasantly surprised by the amount of airtime she was given to talk about her story, including time to talk about her music (Taunia is also a singer and performer).

If you're interested in Taunia's message, she also hosts a weekly Web radio show called The Backstage Pass Radio Program (www.backstagepassradio.com) every Monday night at 8:00pm EST where she discusses weight-loss surgery, obesity, and fashion and beauty-related topics and her website: is www.divataunia.com.

When will Mikey come home?

Cynthia said the family has had a very rough few years since 2008 when a tree fell through their house near Silver Lake causing them to move more than 16 times until they obtained public housing in 2010. Less than a year after moving into their current home on St. Paul street, Mikey collapsed.

"We can look out our window and see where he fell and it helps to comfort us," Cynthia said. "And with the overwhelming support the community has showed us with Mikey, we don't want to move." She went on to explain that Christina, Mikey's little sister, has had a particularly rough time and the stability their current home provides is best.

"She [Christina] has lost her brother and her dad, since he is at the hospital with Mikey almost 24/7," Cynthia said. "She is settled here. She has a friend just up the street that helps her a lot. Moving would be bad for her."

At the beginning of February doctors predicted Mikey could be home within 90 days. So Mike Murphy began learning his son's medications and daily care routines while Cynthia continued working to get the home modifications done.

On February 6 the family submitted a second Request for Reasonable Accommodations/Modifications asking for an addition to the back of the home for a handicapped accessible bedroom and bathroom. Cynthia said she thought this would be easier and quicker to complete than the previous request.

Executive Director of the Wilmington Housing Authority Maureen Hickey said that while she is not able to discuss the details of any case, an extensive accommodation request takes time to plan.

"The Wilmington Housing Authority is sympathetic to this family and is committed

Narrow Halls

A narrow hallway in the Murphy home will not accommodate Mikey's wheelchair. The family has petitioned for a small one-room addition to the property that would allow for a bedroom and a bathroom with a roll-in shower. Mikey would not be able to visit the kitchen, living room, or any other room in the home, but at least he would be home with his family.

to see that the accommodation request is fulfilled to the family's satisfaction," Hickey said. She went on to say that accommodations requests are handled locally until the funding cannot be supported at the local level. She said the Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) will be the funding agency for the Murphy's request.

The aid from DHCD came after the intervention of Representative Miceli when the family reached out to him, frustrated with the delays. Miceli told the Crier Wednesday that he worked directly with Secretary of Housing and Economic Development Gregory Bialecki to finally secure the funding. When the project will begin, though, is uncertain.

At this time, the family said Mikey is able to move his arms and left leg on his own and has little movement in his right leg. He smiles almost everyday, although it's mostly in his sleep. Mikey tries to vocalize everyday and is now able to swallow his own saliva, which he struggled with for eight months. Mikey continues to make progress daily and has a dedicated staff assisting him.

"I believe he understands quite a bit when we talk to him. When I talk about going home he starts getting antsy a little bit and starts yelling," Mike said.

"Now he's five foot eight and 127 pounds. He's growing like a Chia pet in there," Cynthia said with her only smile of the evening.

Mikey underwent another surgery last week before beginning a new daily physical therapy to help him regain control of his legs and feet. The ultimate goal is that Mikey will one day walk again.

"Mikey is still taking baby steps," Cynthia said. "But they are steps in the right direction."

Wildcats crown a pair of league champions

Jennings tosses a winner

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

BURLINGTON — Nothing was going to stand in the way of Eli Jennings and a championship performance at the Middlesex League Championship Meet at Burlington High School on Tuesday night.

Poor weather conditions, more experienced competition and a muddy field could not stop the Wilmington High sophomore from making history by capturing the Middlesex League title in the discus with a throw of 146-5 to easily outdistance his competition and continue what has been a great season for the young thrower.

Jennings throw of 146-5 beat his nearest competitor by more than three feet and could be a sign of things to come with the Division 3 State Meet and the All-State Meet approaching in the weeks to come.

"Eli is performing as one of the top discus throwers in the state, and his potential for growth is great," said head coach Mike Kinney. "He is hard worker and he continuously improves on the finer points of the event. He has also performed exceptionally throughout the season in the shot put, with a personal best throw of 50-3. Long time coach, Frank Kelley has provided Eli with some valuable coaching. He has gained big meet experience, and performed under pressure.

Jennings entered the Middlesex League Meet coming off a personal best throw of 147-6 just last week in the Mass State Coaches Invitational, so he was confident headed into the meet, but becoming a league champion was still quite the thrill for the sophomore.

"I felt like I had a chance. I was a little nervous in the shot put, but I had a lot of confidence in the discus," Jennings said. "Fortunately everything just came together for me. I just remembered everything taught to me by (head coach Mike) Mr. Kinney and (longtime former head coach Frank) Mr. Kelley."

Making Jennings performance all the more impressive was the weather conditions he and the other competitors were facing throughout the night with steady rainfall and muddy conditions hindering performances. Still, Jennings was not deterred in his quest for the title.

"The weather made it very difficult," Jennings said. "The circle was muddy and wet and it was hard to keep the disc dry. It kept slipping out of my hands, and it was also hard to spin in the cir-

Hartsough continues to flourish

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

BURLINGTON — It's been quite the athletic year for Kelly Hartsough and on Tuesday night in the pouring rain it got that much better.

The sophomore three-sport athlete, started out on a strong foot by playing tremendous defense for the Varsity Girls Soccer team helping the Wildcats win the Middlesex League Small School Championship title this past fall. The success carried over to the winter as a member of the Indoor Track team where she excelled in many events which not only led her to many post season place finishes, but also as a first team member of the Lowell Sun All-Star squad.

Then on Tuesday night, she was able to enjoy the trifecta after she became the lone member of the Outdoor Girls Track team to capture a league championship after she was clocked at 2:24 to win the 800 meters during the Middlesex League Championship Meet held at Burlington High School.

"I am so unbelievably proud of Kelly and ecstatic that her talents, hard work, and efforts have paid-off by being crowned the league champion in the 800 meters," said first-year head coach Brie Karow, who Hartsough said has had a major impact on not only her but the entire team thus far. "Kelly ran a great race today. She looked strong and smart making decisive decisions that led to her having a final kick towards the end of the race, hurling her across the finish line. You could see the determination and will power all over her face. She made up her mind and was not going to accept anything less than a win. With the continued success from Kelly, along with the talents of her fellow teammates, we are well poised for some electrifying seasons to come."

Hartsough admitted that she thought she had a chance to win the Tuesday's race but knew that her toughest challenge would come from a runner from Lexington, Kristen Fiore, who only was the sixth best 1,000 meter runner in Division 1 from this past winter season.

"I knew that we would be competing with each other and I knew I would be capable of beating her and she would be capable of beating me," said Hartsough. "I was trying my best to figure out the best way to use my energy and have a good strategy, but mostly all I wanted to do was go all out, give everything I had and hopefully win."

That she did. She said that she started out in the middle of the pack until the second lap where she made her move.

"(Karow) told me to let the Lexington girl take the lead and then on the second lap, on the straightaway to make a move," she said. "So that's what I did. I was afraid that it wouldn't be enough, but I was able to use my final kick to my advantage. I don't know how much I won by but it was such a great feeling to finish first."

For any runner, competing at a high level twice around the track is never easy, nevermind doing it in the pouring rain.

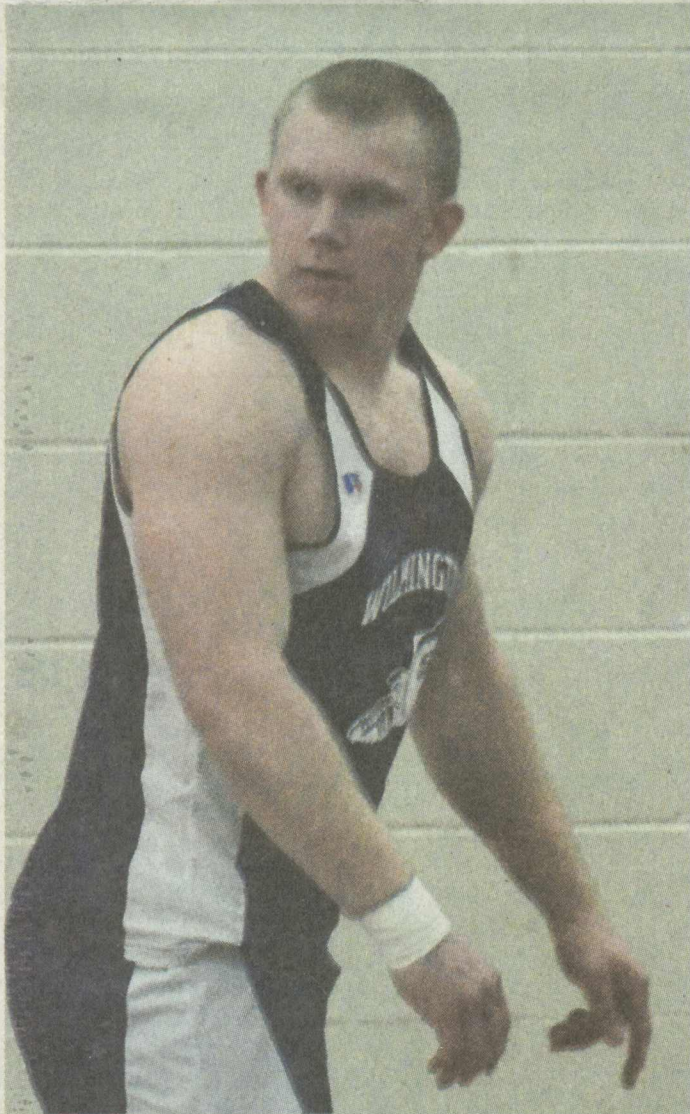

"When my race went off, the rain wasn't too bad but by the time we did the 4x400 it was pouring," she said, while also noting that her father was a cross-country runner and her mother a cheerleader in a high school in Michigan, while her brother Robbie also plays soccer. "The 800 is very tough. They categorize it by saying that it's an 800-meter dash, but when you look around the track and realize you have to sprint around it twice, it's just absolutely brutal. So I try to conserve my energy but I still went all out for the two laps. I'm still adjusting to energy, my rhythm and realizing there's so much form that goes into running."

Hartsough can do anything from sprints to middle distance running to even distance events such as the mile. She mostly excels in the middle distance events from the 400 to 800 to 1,000, as well as being the anchor leg of the team's 4x400 relay team, which enjoyed tremendous success during the indoor season.

"Kelly has been an enormous asset to our team as she proves it with her dedication and work ethic every single day," said Karow. "Only a sophomore, Kelly is responsible for the majority

Baseball team battling for league title

By JAMIE POTE & MIKE IPPOLITO

After watching the bats go silent for a few games, Wilmington High School Baseball coach Aldo Caira enjoyed a resurgence from his Wildcats team this past week as they won three games, to not only qualifying for the state tournament once again, but are now in a position to capture the Middlesex League small school championship title.

This past week Wilmington trounced Stoneham, 11-3, Watertown 4-0 and then edged out Melrose 7-5 in a terrific come back to improve to 8-6 on the season. Although Wilmington still has six games left on the schedule, the team has qualified for post-season play because it will finish in either first or in a tie for second place in the league standings which is an automatic bid.

On Tuesday night, Wakefield gave Burlington its third league loss, and Wilmington is 7-1 against ML Division 2 teams and have two games left with Wakefield on Wednesday as this paper was being printed and then Burlington on Thursday afternoon.

"We only have the one league loss so far, so that means we are guaranteed at least a co-championship (of the small school title)," said Caira. "And we can win it outright by winning one of our next two games."

The terrific week was highlighted by the tandem of John Keough and Tim Woods. Last Wednesday, Keough pitched five strong innings to record the win over Stoneham. He gave up six hits, didn't walk a batter and struck out four. He was helped out offensively by Jeff Favuzza, who collected three hits, while Corey Stillings (2 hits), Colin Doherty (triple, 3 RBI), Mike Curtis and Joe Russell (1 RBI each), who also contributed at the plate.

The next day Wilmington blanked Watertown 4-0 as Woods picked up his first win in three decisions. He gave up just four hits, but walked five and struck out three. He was able to pick-off three runners from first base, including one key runner in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Wilmington got on the board in the first inning. With two outs and the bases loaded, Watertown's catcher tried to pick off Corey Stillings at first base, and as soon as the ball left the catcher's arm, Woods came in from third. He then scored the team's second run of the game in the second inning. With the bases empty and two outs, he singled and then came around on a RBI double by Phil Lentini, who continues to have a terrific all-around season.

In the third inning, Wilmington added two more runs as Dalton Rolli and Colin Doherty reached on singles. Three batters later, Favuzza singled in Rolli and then Brendan McDonough followed with his own safety to score Doherty which completed the team's scoring on the day. Also at the plate, Ryan Carroccino, who was brought up from the JV team, made his varsity debut as a pinch hitter and was robbed of his first hit by a diving play by the Watertown left fielder.

In the field, Caira pointed out the efforts from Favuzza, who he said made two spectacular defensive plays from shortstop, as well as Doherty, who had "a web gem" from third base.

On Monday, Wilmington was in a 2-2 deadlock with Melrose only to trail 5-2 but in the bottom of the third, the Wildcats scored five runs and the lead held the rest of the way and Wilmington celebrated with a 7-5 victory. Keough pitched the first five innings to record the win and improve to 4-0 on the season. Woods came in and tossed two shut out innings of relief to improve to 1-2 on the season with a save.

"Timmy saved the game against Melrose for Keough doing the same thing he did against Watertown by walking a kid and then picking him off, before striking out the last kid out to end the game," said Caira.

Dalton Rolli, playing right field in this game, made a diving catch in the first inning and then made a great over the head running catch in right center field to rob an extra base hit in the seventh inning.

Offensively, McDonough started the big five run rally with a double. He scored on a RBI single by Woods, which was followed by singles from Lentini and Cole Pepper. After a wild pitch scored a run, Lentini singled in a run, before Doherty scored two on a triple and then scored on a RBI single by Curtis.

"After Melrose scored three runs to go up 5-2, the kids came to the dugout and they had the look in their eyes that they weren't going to let this happen to them again with this team," said Caira. "They were just so determined and they didn't let this game get away from them, so it was nice to see them come back and get this one."

In the three games, Wilmington combined for 28 hits and outscored its opponents 22-8.

BOYS LAX

The Wilmington High Boys Lacrosse team picked up their second win of the season last Saturday in a 10-9 road thriller over Middlesex League rival Watertown. The Wildcats record now stands at 2-11 for the season as they continue to show improvement while playing in the very tough Middlesex League.

The Wildcats were led to the victory by goals from Mitch Deambrose, Brian Priem, Ryan Kennedy and Matt Penney.

First year Wilmington coach Kieran Kavanaugh was happy to see his team finally return to the win column after putting in so much hard work over the past several weeks.

"Watertown is a Middlesex conference tournament contender who is a very good team," Kavanaugh said. "Brian Priem stood out in this game because he dominated the faceoffs which is huge in a tight game. It was a total team effort and another thing that stood out was our defense. It was the best defensive performance that I have seen all season against a really good offensive team."

While the wins have been hard to come by for the Wildcats this season, Kavanaugh has been pleased with the improvement his team has shown since the start of the season.

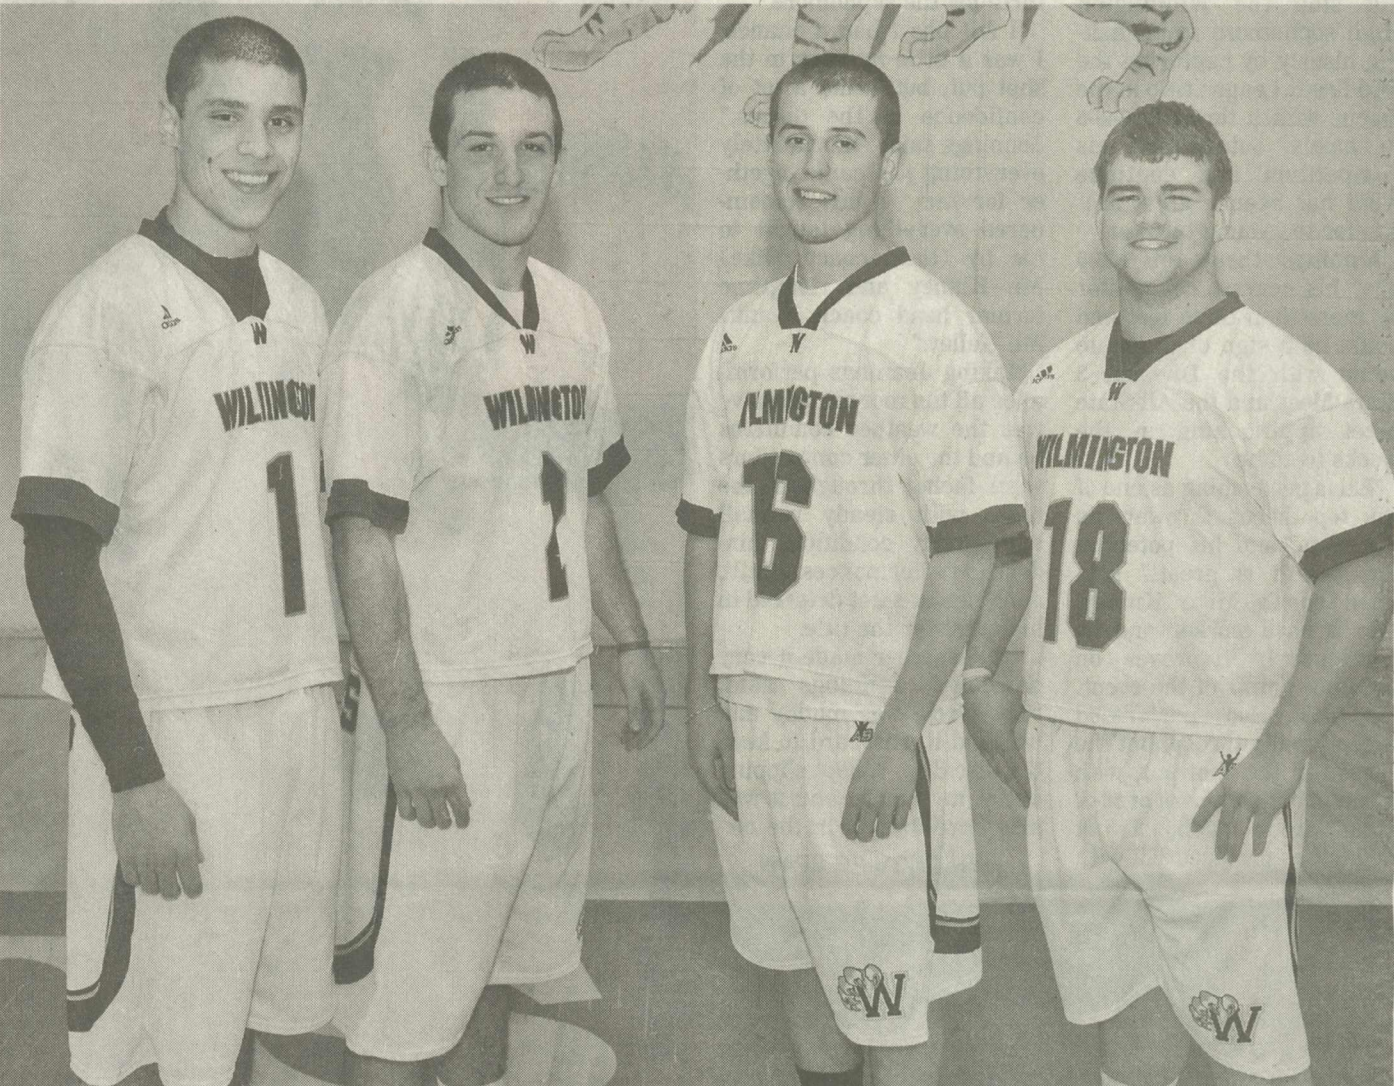

"The team has responded well to playing in a new competitive conference and our team continues to improve each day and that's all we can ask as coaches," Kavanaugh said. "We are looking for continued improvement for the rest of the season."

TRACK

Despite the torrential rain, the Wilmington High School Boys and Girls Track teams participated in the Middlesex League Championship Meet on Tuesday at Burlington High School. Team scores weren't available at press time, however, the Wildcat Boys team was led by sophomore Eli Jennings who was crowned a league champion in the discus throwing 146-3, and on the girls side fellow sophomore Kelly Hartsough was the league champion in the 800 coming in with a time of

Other highlights on the boys side include junior Steve Halas, who finished second in the 800 with a time of 2:01.4, while he joined Pat Barry, Colin Chase and Andrew Sears to place fourth in the 4x400 relay race with a combined time of 3:35. Barry had a very busy day as he also placed second in the javelin throwing 149-8 and was sixth in the 400-meter hurdles coming across at 60.4 seconds. Finally for place finishers was senior Killian Smith who was fourth in the javelin tossing 144-11.

"Many other personal bests were achieved in the rain tonight," explained Kinney. "Andrew Sears ran a personal record of 4:40 in the mile. Dave Swider ran 2:04 in the 800, qualifying him for the state meet. Peter Warren ran a personal record of 2:05 in the 800. James O'Regan and Wayne Huynh cleared 5-7 in the high jump. Wayne's season best was 5-9. Jon Weaver threw a personal record in the discus of 111 feet. Colin Chase also ran a personal record of 60.7 seconds in the 400 hurdles."

Back to the girls, besides Hartsough, Kate Cowden placed sixth in the discus (87-10) and was seventh in the shot put (29-5), while Lauren Bennett was seventh in the javelin (94-6). Other highlights came from personal bests by Rachel Alatalo in the triple jump (30-2), Savannah Hubbard in the 400 meter hurdles (72.25), Jen Collins with a 6:40 time in the mile, Jackie Ryan with a 71.5 second time in the 400, and Sydnee Russo, who qualified for the state meet with a 5:43 clip in the mile.

SOFTBALL

The Wilmington High School Softball team enjoyed a nice week of play picking up three wins and falling once to improve to 7-8 on the season. The Wildcats need to win three of its last five games against Wakefield, Burlington, Shawsheen Tech, Lexington and Arlington in order to qualify for post season play.

Among the highlights from this past week came a 6-4 win over Melrose on Monday night. Megan Howland picked up the win going the distance and not yielding a walk, while giving up five hits and striking out two. She was helped out offensively by Emily Crannell, who had three hits including two singles, a double and she drove in two, while, Jen Stewart added two hits and a RBI.

High School Football alignment appears to be a go

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

Changes are coming to the playoff format of Massachusetts High School football and those changes will certainly affect each of our local teams at Tewksbury and Wilmington High School, as well as Shawsheen Tech.

While nothing is official yet, it is nearly a certainty that a new playoff format will be in place for the 2013 football season after a 10-4 vote in favor of the new format by the MIAA's Tournament Management Committee last Thursday afternoon in Franklin.

Under the new system, a statewide playoff, divided between North, South, Central and West regions would begin after a seven week regular season. In the North and South there would be six divisions, with anywhere from 12 to 18 teams in each division, with eight qualifiers per division.

Every school in the state would play a seven game regular season schedule, after which time the eight qualifiers in each division would begin a tournament style playoff for the next three weeks, eventually winding up with two finalists in each division.

While the playoff games are taking place, teams that did not qualify for the playoffs, or who are eliminated in the first or second round of the playoffs, would play in other matchups as determined by the MIAA.

All teams, regardless of record or playoff standing, would then play their traditional Thanksgiving Day games, before the six Super Bowl games are played at Gillette Stadium ten days after Thanksgiving.

The goal of the proposal is to crown a true state champion in each division, with just six state champions for the entire state, with each division championship to be played at Gillette Stadium. Last season, under the current system, the state crowned 19 Super Bowl champions.

The reaction among local coaches and athletic directors, much like the rest of the state, has been mixed to say the least. While each coach and athletic director acknowledges the positives intended by the changes as well as the hard work put in by the committee to come up with the new format, their opinions on how the changes will affect their football programs, as well as the rest of their league, differ in many ways.

Wilmington coach Mike Barry, whose team would be placed in the Division 3 Northeast along with Tewksbury, certainly has his reservations about the new system, but now that it appears it will be something he must abide by, he is willing to give it a chance.

"I think it is sort of a drastic change. You have seven games to make the playoffs, and once the playoffs start, that really changes things," Barry said. "I think it takes away from the eleven game schedule. One thing about football is that every game always means something, but if you don't make the playoffs or are eliminated from the playoffs I am not sure that will be the case in those last few games. It is a big unknown."

"With that said, I know people have worked really hard to put this together, and it is going to happen so we have no choice really but to embrace it and go out and do the best we can with it."

Barry's Athletic Director, Ed Harrison, was a little less diplomatic in his feelings toward the new system, as he has concerns for his school's program, as well as the rest of the Middlesex League.

"I don't like it. The Middlesex League doesn't like it, and I think the MVC as a whole does not really like it," Harrison said. "I think it is something that the private schools, and the bigger schools wanted, but I don't think it is good for everybody."

Harrison's main complaint with the new system is similar to Barry's, in that he is not sure what the games will be like if his team is eliminated from the playoffs.

"If your are not in the playoffs, or eliminated early, what are you playing for?," Harrison said. "I think it is catering to the private schools and not doing what is best for everybody."

Harrison's counterpart, Tewksbury High Athletic Director Brian Hickey, definitely understands the concerns of Harrison and others like him who are opposed to the change, but he also feels that it was time for a change and that the proposed system should be given an opportunity to work.

Hickey does acknowledge, however, that he has a bit personal stake in the matter.

"I think any proposal of this type has earned enough merit to look at," Hickey said. "I happen to favor it, but I think it favors us more than some other teams in the MVC so I am conscious of other AD's feelings on this. I think with anything like this, we are going to have to see it in place before we can actually make a determination."

One of the reasons Hickey likes the new proposal is the experience he has had at Tewksbury High where he has seen the Redmen fail to qualify for the playoffs despite having some outstanding seasons.

This was particularly the case in the old MVC before it was split into two divisions, but even now a deserving playoff team could be left out of the post season.

Under the new system, they will have a chance to prove their worth on the field.

"Historically if you look back before there were two divisions in the MVC, I can distinctly remember teams going 9-2 and not getting into the post season, while other teams in other leagues who might not have been as good were able to get in," Hickey said. "And I don't just mean Tewksbury. I recall other teams in the league having their playoff fate decided by a coin toss. Nobody wants to have that."

At Shawsheen, which will play in Division 5 North, head football coach and Athletic Director Al Costabile realizes that the new system is definitely not perfect, but he is looking forward to seeing it play out over the first couple of seasons.

"I think right now everyone is in a situation where they don't really know what they can think about it," Costabile said. "We really won't know until we experience it, and I am sure there will be some positives and some negatives to it, as there is with any new thing like this."

Like Hickey, one of the aspects of the proposal that Costabile likes is that a team that does not necessarily win its league can still be rewarded for having a fine season.

"I think some people feel they could immediately benefit because perhaps they were in a league where it is very difficult to win it because there is a perennial champion," Costabile said. "Now a school that has been very successful, but not quite good enough to get in the playoffs will have a chance."

Costabile does, however, has his concerns, similar to those of Harrison, as to what will happen to those teams that do not qualify for the post season.

"I am worried about the November games,"

Costabile said. "You are playing your biggest games of the year in September, and I am concerned about what it will be like for the teams that do not qualify. If you have a losing record, but are still playing your league schedule late in the season, you have rivalries that you can get up for. Under this new system, I don't see how you will be able to do that."

Another concern for many coaches is how the last three weeks of the season could affect the traditional Thanksgiving Day games. Under the new proposal, all Thanksgiving Day games will remain intact, an aspect of the change that everyone agrees is for the best. What some coaches and athletic directors don't like is that the meaning of the Turkey Day games could be diminished because the teams involved may very well have played each other in the playoffs in a prior week.

For example, if Tewksbury and Wilmington each make the playoffs out of the Division 3 Northeast, it is very conceivable they could face each other in the playoffs in Weeks 8-10, while also knowing they will definitely be facing each other in Week 11 on Thanksgiving.

"The way the proposal is written, we could play Tewksbury in Week 10, and then again the very next week on Thanksgiving," Barry said. "It could be a very awkward situation. Like I said before, it is a lot of not knowing, and that is a concern. Anyone who says they know what is going on with this really just thinks they know what is going on."

Barry is not concerned just for his own team, however.

"Look at Melrose and Wakefield," Barry said. "They will play each other during the regular season because they are in the same league, and they will face each other on Thanksgiving, and they could also play each other in the playoffs. Facing a team twice is strange enough, but three times would be really awkward."

Costabile has similar concerns as Barry. It is not an issue for him and his team right now, as their Thanksgiving Day rival Greater Lowell is slotted in Division 4. But if, as Costabile thinks is a possibility, they are moved to Division 5, Shawsheen could potentially face Greater Lowell three times in the season, as a league rival, a playoff opponent and on Thanksgiving.

"If we face them three times that would be pretty hard to defend that," Costabile said. "It would be pretty hard to put a positive spin on that."

One aspect of the proposal which needs no positive spin at all, is the new scheduling for the playoffs. As it stands under the current system, playoff teams play three games in a matter of ten days, with a Thanksgiving Day game on Thursday, a first round playoff game the following Tuesday, and the Super Bowl on that Saturday.

It is a grind on the players and coaching staffs, that two of the programs who have experienced it lately, will not be sorry to see disappear. Under the new system, there will be one week between each playoff game, and ten days between Thanksgiving and the Super Bowls.

"I think that is a big plus," said Costabile, who coached the Rams to a Division 4 Super Bowl title in 2010. "The way things are now, in the biggest game of the year, you have the least time to practice. You play in the playoff game on Tuesday night, and you get back late, and you are definitely not going to practice on of our points in regular dual meets and is one of those athletes that you know, no matter the race or event, Kelly will be a true competitor.... not only a contender for top three, but she'll probably win it.

"Kelly is so incredibly versatile that it makes it almost difficult as a coach to decide which event to place her in because there are so many she'd excel in."

And on Tuesday she excelled in one event, the 800 where she was crowned a league champion.

"It's great because this has never happened to me before," she said. "It's a great feeling knowing you are the fastest 800 meter girl in the league."

Not only that, but she's one of the best all-around track performers in the area, but she's an extremely level headed and hard working kid, who has already established herself as one of the top athletes in the school. And she has two more years to go.

On Wednesday, May 9th, Lieutenant Governor Murray congratulated the Wilmington High School Division II State Championship boys hockey team during their visit to the State House. The Wildcats won the Massachusetts Division II State Championship by defeating Franklin High School Panthers in March. This is the first ever state title for the Wilmington High School boys hockey team. "I am proud to congratulate these talented players on winning the State Championship," said Lieutenant Governor Murray. "This title is a testament to their teamwork, dedication and passion for the game."

cle. "But I had a towel by my side when I was not throwing and when it was my turn I would wipe the disc and go right into throwing to stop it from slipping. It was amazing that it all came together they way it did."

About the only thing missing from the night for Jennings was any sense of drama, as he had pretty much wrapped up the title fairly early on, leading by ten feet after his first three throws, and never seeing an opponent coming any closer than three feet until a competitor from Belmont on his last throw of the meet.

"Going into the finals I felt confident, and it was not until the final throw of the finals that someone threw 143," Jennings said. "On that last throw, I knew it was a good one, but I didn't think it was good enough to beat me. Still, it was a relief when they called out that it was 143 and not 146."

Despite his great night, the reality of winning the league championship still had not set in for Jennings until he was on the bus on the way back to Wilmington High.

"I had just gotten on the bus, and I was on the phone calling my mom so she could come pick me up when we got back to the school," Jennings said. "While I was on the phone, the girls coach (Brie Karow) came over to me and told me they needed my phone number so you guys (Town Crier) could call me because I was a league champ."

"I was soaked, tired and just exhausted, but when they told me I was a league champ I just forgot all about everything else. It was almost unreal."

But it is not unreal at all, and is actually very well deserved after all of the hard work that Jennings has put in this season. Being a league champ was a validation of all of that hard work for Jennings.

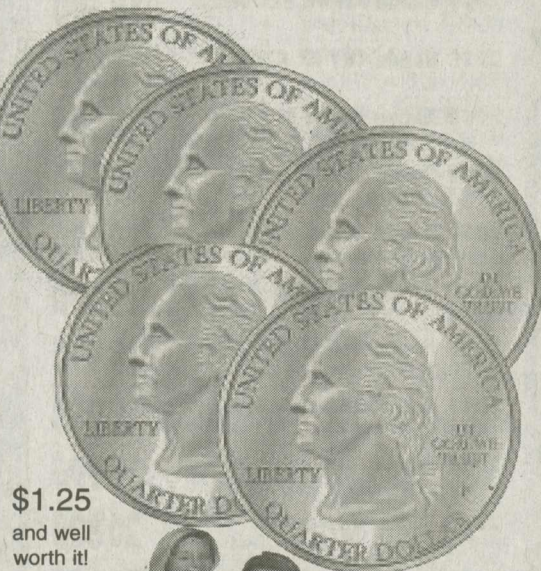

"A lot of people have been telling me that I have a lot of potential my whole life," Jennings said. "Now I look at it and realize they were correct. I have worked really hard for this. Coach Kinney has told me that I have a really great work ethic so to see it pay off and to be a league champion is a wonderful thing."

Maciejewski continues the accolades at Bates College

By KAYTI BURT
Sports Correspondent

Leah Maciejewski, of Tewksbury, was named NFCA All-Region Second Team and Honorable Mention for the NEISCA Division III All-Star this past week, a pair of honors to add to the Academic All-District nod she garnered the previous week. Maciejewski averaged .391 with two home runs and 23 RBI this season, helping the team to a 18-2 record (which tied the program's record for most season victories).

The catcher and first baseman was also a two-year co-captain for the team and finishes in Bates' all-time top five list for hits, singles, doubles, and total bases. She hit .343 over her career with four homers and 73 RBIs in 359 at-bats, as well as a sparkling .975 career fielding percentage.

In other collegiate softball news, Leanne Harris' Lady Vikings were unable to defeat second-seeded Tufts or third-seeded University of Rochester in their first and last games of NCAA Division III tournament play last week. Harris, of Wilmington, is head coach for the Salem State squad, and Lauren DiCredico, of Tewksbury, pitches and plays outfield for the team. Despite four runs in the opening inning against Tufts, Salem State fell 10-5 in the opening round loss. The Lady Vikings had to win the rest of their games in order to stay in the double-elimination tournament, but fell just short in a 4-3 loss against the University of Rochester last Friday. The team finishes off the season with a 33-14 record overall.

Allie Frazier, of Tewksbury, and the seventh-seeded UNE softball squad fell in the ninth game of the NCAA Division III Softball Tournament Saturday 1-0. Frazier came the closest to scoring for the Nor'Easters, reaching on an error in the lead-off spot in the sixth and stealing second. She wouldn't get any further, however, as first-seeded SUNY Cortland's relied pitcher retired the next three batters.

Sophomore Frazier had three hits in UNE's 11-8 win over Husson in the previous round. The team Championships Sunday. Judge cleared 1.70 meters (5 feet, 7 inches) in the high jump on her first attempt. She was unable to clear the next height (only six of 35 competitors managed to do so) and match her own personal record, finishing in seventh place.

Andrea Caprio, of Tewksbury, threw the javelin 125-1 to finish 12th in the 2012 New England Outdoor Championship for WPI last weekend. Caprio and the team will travel to the ECAC Championships next weekend.

In baseball, senior Mike Delponte, of Tewksbury, went out swinging, tallying a hit in his final game with the Bryant Bulldogs Sunday. Delponte, along with five other senior members of the team, were honored in a ceremony before the game. They went on to a 2-1 victory over Wagner to finish the season 33-21 overall and 14-17 in conference play. Delponte also contributed in the Bulldogs' 3-2 loss to Wagner last Friday, working a two-out walk, moving to third on back-to-back wild pitches, and scoring on an infield single to pull the team within a run in the eighth.

Patrick Parker, of Wilmington, and Manuel Cabral, of Tewksbury, have been named first team in the All New England Selections. Nine of the 20 spots were given to Northern Essex Community College baseball players, of which Parker and Cabral number. The team, which has a 25-7 record this season, are heading to the National Junior College Athletic Association tournament in Texas this weekend. Cabral was also named Defensive Player of the Year.

Over in the track-and-field world, Stephanie Walker, of Tewksbury, ran a 15.09 in the 100-meter hurdles at the New England Intercollegiate Amateur Athletic Association Track and Field Championships at MIT last Friday. The time was a personal best for the UMass Lowell sophomore, earning her a 15th place, but falling short of the cut for the final.

Senior Kristen Judge, of Tewksbury, contributed to UPenn's 32nd place finish at the ECAC busy this past week. Two Wilmington residents turned out for the Xmas in May 5K in Lowell last Tuesday. Katey Sullivan finished 134th with a time of 27:41 and Robin Kanter placed 188th with a time of 31:50. Nine Tewksbury residents made the race, including: Brian Ristuccia (42nd, 22:28), Kim Budryk (68th, 23:52), Angie Anderson (107th, 25:59), Ed Morrison (110th, 26:06), Mireille Imbeau (157th, 29:03), Jerome Taylor (190th, 32:08), Christina Ristuccia (196th, 32:31), Paula Cullen (205th, 34:21), and Marianne Sullivan (219th, 38:00).

Wilmington finished 576th with a time of 2:09:46.

The NECC Walk/Run for Autism in Southborough drew two Wilmington residents on Saturday. Linda Foley and Nora Orpin finished 436th and 437th, respectively, with times of 57:58.

John Gorvin and John Gillis, both of Wilmington, were in Somerville Sunday for the MOMs Run. Gorvin placed 29th in the race with a time of 21:17 and Gillis finished 67th with a time of 24:19.

The 15th Annual Melrose Run for Women drew quite a crowd on Sunday. Six Tewksbury residents ran in the race, including: Trish Bourne (2nd, 22:09), Megan Lynch (54th, 27:43), Nicole Fields (177th, 32:03), Dee Lynch (304th, 34:47), Erica McGillicuddy (364th, 36:19), and Patricia Polleys (570th, 47:00).

Four Wilmington women finished the race, including: Hannah Holman (45th, 27:03), Catherine Kane (151st, 30:52), Nicole Rosania (522nd, 42:53), and Karen Rosania (525th, 43:01).

The 12th Annual JCC Triathlon by the Sea saw five Wilmington residents take to the course in Marblehead on Sunday. They included: Yvonne Helbert (39th, 1:10:09), Joanne Censullo (146th, 1:26:58), Susu Wong (169th, 1:32:29), Julie Chen (173rd, 1:33:56), and Patricia Tammaro (196th, 1:45:53). Paul Sedgwick and Debbie Evangelista, both of Tewksbury, also completed the triathlon. Sedgwick finished 41st with a time of 1:10:18 and Evangelista finished 112th with a time of 1:21:05.

Shawsheen Tech Sports Round-Up

Rams hurler tosses a no-hitter

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

It was quite the afternoon for the Shawsheen Tech Baseball team on Tuesday. Taking on CAC Large rival Whittier at home with first place in the league on the line, the Rams not only came up with an important victory, but they did so in the most thrilling way imaginable, pulling out a 2-1 win behind a no-hitter by senior left-hander Austin Cummings.

The win puts the Rams firmly in the driver's seat for the league title, as they improved to 13-2 overall, and 9-2 in the CAC. Whittier meanwhile, dropped to 8-3 in the league, joining Mystic Valley in second place. Each team has two games remaining in their CAC schedule.

Shawsheen coach Jim Sullivan could not have been happier with his team's performance, particularly given what was at stake.

"It was an incredible day for us," Sullivan said. "We played one of our best games of the season against a very good pitcher from Whittier. We fought hard from the first pitch to the last. We knew that whoever won this game would have a leg up in the league and it took a no hitter to do it, but we got it done."

Whittier scored their one run of the game on a walk, a stolen base and an error in the fifth inning, but they could muster nothing more against Cummings, who has seemed to improve with each start this season, as he improved to 4-0 with the no hitter.

"He is staying focused and he listens to what I have to say," continued Sullivan. "He is working very hard to be a very good pitcher and it showed today, because he threw his no hitter against a very good team."

Shawsheen took a 1-0 lead in the second inning when senior Mike Bowse of Tewksbury led off with a double and then scored on a two out single by senior Steve Reynolds of Wilmington.

Bowse also scored what would prove to be a huge insurance run in the fifth inning. He reached base after striking out when a passed ball rolled all the way to the screen, an he came around to score all the way from first on a double by junior Joe Tower of Tewksbury.

"Mike took off at the crack of the bat, and read the ball perfectly," Sullivan said. "It was his hustle that allowed them to score. It was a great hit by Joe and a great job of base running by Mike."

While Cummings will deservedly grab most of the headlines for Shawsheen, Sullivan knows the lefty did not do it all by himself, as he also credited the defense behind Cummings.

"It was a complete team effort," Sullivan said. "I told the kids after the game that everyone contributed to this win. You can't pitch a no-hitter without defense and we got some great defense, especially by Cory Suprey in centerfield. He must have saved four hits on his own on balls he came in on."

Sullivan also felt that junior catcher Cory DePlacido deserved a great deal of credit.

"He called the game himself," Sullivan said. "I did not call it. He had complete command of his pitcher. He took trips to the mound when he needed to and he kept Austin focused which was the most important thing. There were a lot of fans and a lot of noise and he kept his composure. I was very proud of him."

Shawsheen also won their previous two games last week, although were not nearly as dramatic. Last Wednesday, they downed CAC rival Minuteman by a score of 17-5 behind four hits and three RBI by DePlacido, while Joe Vitale of Wilmington had three hits and four RBI and Cummings tossed a complete game for the win.

Last Thursday, the Rams beat non-league rival Amesbury for the second time this season by a score of 5-3 behind a complete game six hitter by Bowse. DePlacido and Joe Sodergren of Tewksbury each had two hits in the win, while senior Brian Ward had to RBI on the day.

The Rams will take on CAC rivals Chelsea on Friday and Greater Lowell next Tuesday. With wins in one of the two games, they will clinch at least a tie for the CAC title, and if they win both games they will win the crown outright.

SOFTBALL

The Shawsheen Softball team got a big win of their own over Whittier on Tuesday afternoon, and while there was not the drama of a no-hitter, the Lady Rams certainly had some drama of their own, scoring four times in the bottom of the fifth to take the lead for good in a 12-10 comeback win that put them within one game of clinching the CAC Large title with just two league games remaining.

With the win, Shawsheen improved to 12-2 on the season and 11-1 in the CAC Large, while Whittier fell to 9-3 in the league and now trails both Shawhseen and second place Greater Lowell who is 10-2 in the CAC.

Shawsheen fell into a 3-0 first inning hole and trailed 4-0 in the second inning before scoring six runs in the bottom of the second to take the lead. They then trailed by scores of 9-6 and 10-8 before coming up their four run fifth inning to come away with the win.

"It was back and forth all game long and I am just glad we came out on top," Shawsheen coach Maureen Buckley said. "That is something I am not sure we would have been able to do last year, but we continued to battle all day long and were finally able to take the lead for good in the fifth."

There were several offensive stars on the day for the Lady Rams starting with Danielle Cacciola of Tewksbury who was 3-for-4 with an RBI and three runs scored, while fellow Tewksbury resident Arianna Medeiros was 2-for-4 with three runs scored.

Catcher Jamie Ray was 2-for-4 with a run scored and three RBI, while first baseman Jen Curtis was 2-for-3 with three runs scored and an RBI while Rachel Fahey was 1-for-4 with a double and two RBI

"Up and down the lineup in key spots we had girls coming up with big hits," Buckley said. "You have to like seeing so many kids contribute like that."

And despite the final score, Buckley felt that both of her pitchers, starter Emily Hamilton and Meghan Walsh, who came in to replace her in the fifth, did a good job.

"When they score their three runs in the first, they came on an error, a bunt and another error," Buckley said. "They hit a home run off of her on the first pitch of the second inning and I think that was the first bad pitch she had thrown. Meghan came in the fifth with us down 9-8 and she did a nice job of settling things down for us."

The win over Whittier was big for the Lady Rams in many ways, as not only did it help them inch closer toward a fifth straight league title, it may have also helped them secure a spot in the State Vocational Tournament, as they are one of just four teams in the state with just one vocational school loss.

"Whittier is as good as any

team we will face all season, so this was a big win for us," Buckley said. "And vocationally and league wise this is a huge win for us."

Shawsheen prepared for their big game with Whittier with a 9-0 rout of another CAC rival Minuteman the day before. In that game they were led by a 3-for-3 two RBI day by senior Francesca Pesantes of Tewksbury, while Walsh pitched five innings of shutout ball in the mercy rule shortened game.

Prior to that, last Thursday the Lady Rams had downed North Shore by a score of 12-1 behind Hamilton, who allowed three hits in four innings of work and also had a double and an RBI, while Pesantes also added a pair of hits.

Shawsheen will host CAC rivals Chelsea on Thursday and Greater Lowell next Tuesday with a non-league matchup at Wilmington sandwiched in between on Saturday night.

If Shawsheen wins both league games they will win their fifth straight CAC Large title.

BOYS LAX

The Shawhseen Boys Lacrosse team is also closing in on their fifth straight CAC title after a big 20-6 league win over Greater Lowell on Monday afternoon in Tyngsboro.

The win improved the Rams to 12-2 on the season while they are a perfect 10-0 in the CAC. Nashoba Tech is 9-1 in the CAC and the Rams will host the Vikings on Friday in a game that could very well clinch the league title, as long as Shawsheen is able to beat Mystic Valley on the road on Wednesday.

Shawsheen was led to the win by five goals and three assists by junior attack Tim Hunt of Wilmington, while fellow junior attack Ryan Capraro added three goals and four assists as the Rams broke open a tight 8-6 game at the half with 12 straight goals in the second half.

Hunt now has 50 goals and 19 assists on the season to lead the team, while Capraro has 29 goals and 25 assists.

Lenny Houghton, Scott Dennehy, Nick Peacock and each added two goals for the Rams, while Keenan Beraldi, Joe Ferri, Tom Price and Nicco Riparo had one goal apiece.

The Rams have clearly established themselves as a perennial powerhouse in the CAC, but this year's title, if they are able to close it out, may be their most impressive yet, considering they lost a great number of seniors, including several top scorers off of last year's team.

Another CAC title would no doubt be impressive, but as usual, coach Baker would like to see even more from his team.

"If we finish out the league with victories and win another league title, it is great for the team, the program and the school," Baker said. "The league competition is not that great, so if we qualify for the State Vocational Tournament and win a title it will be even better, and if we can win in the state tournament, it will be even more satisfying."

Prior to the big win over Greater Lowell, the Rams picked up a big non-league win over Lowell last Thursday at Cawley Stadium by a score of 9-8.

Beraldi and Hunt each scored two goals in the third quarter as the Rams scored seven times in the frame to overcome a 4-2 halftime deficit and come away with a big win.

Baker was happy with the win, but he did feel like his team could have played better.

"We threw the ball around way too much. We played one solid quarter, the third and put seven goals in the net, but we are going to have to play better next week against them and can't depend on a comeback again," Baker said. "We played well enough and got some luck in the win. With that said, it was still a great non-league win for the program."

As much as he would have liked to see his team play better, Baker was pleased with the way they came back in the second half.

We started to focus on settling the ball and started to take bounce shots," Baker said. "Early on we were playing catch with the goalie looking for that pretty top corner goal. Also I feel the team was a bit nervous early on causing the sloppy play. Once we settled down, we played much better as a team."

Senior goalie Rich Etter of Tewksbury made 16 saves to earn the win.

With just five games left in the regular season, Baker is hoping his team can fine tune their game, while also picking up some more wins.

"I am looking for the team to put together quality team performances in the remaining games," Baker said. "With this, I feel we will have the team confidence to enter the Division 2 State Tournament."

GIRLS LAX

The Shawsheen Girls Lacrosse team has clinched a spot in the state tournament, earning their way into the post season with a clutch 13-13 tie at home against Watertown on Monday afternoon which left them with a record of 6-2-2 on the season.

Shawsheen got the game tying goal from freshman Malory Kiehl with just three seconds left in regulation. Kiehl had moved up from her defense position to play forward during the game, and wound up scoring the biggest goal of the season for the Lady Rams.

Shawsheen coach Maggie Joyce knew that Kiehl had the offensive skills to help the team from the attack position and she was thrilled to see the freshman come up with the big goal for the Lady Rams.

"She's a threat on attack and on defense but we needed her skill in our defensive end so that's where she's been. Late in the game we needed a change so we moved her up. It certainly paid off," Joyce said.

"When she made it, everyone was ecstatic. It was very exciting to have Mal be the one to score the tying goal."

Seniors Kim Barriss and Charlotte Ardini scored four goals each for the Lady Rams to help pace the offense, continuing what has been a season of consistently strong play for the pair.

"They are both very strong players. They play confident and work very hard," Joyce said/ "They're funny actually, because in running drills they'll compete against each other. They keep each other on their toes."

CO-ED TRACK

The Shawsheen Boys and Girls Track teams each took on Chelsea last Wednesday and came away with mixed results, as the boys rolled to an 86-54 victory over the perennial league powerhouse for their first victory over Chelsea since 2007, and the girls battled hard, but came up on the short end of an 87-49 final.

On the boys side, Shawsheen dominated the field events, with wins in the shot put, discus, javelin, long jump, triple jump and high jump.

Matt Milano won the shot put with a throw 34.5.5, while Chris Salvo captured the discus with a distance of 102'3", followed by Adam Oliver at 101'8". In the javelin, Tyler McInnis paced the field with a throw of 120"

Mike Daley captured the long jump for the Rams with a distance of 17'9", while Zack Toto took the triple jump at 37' and Brett Chartines took the high jump with a leap of 5'.

The track events also went very well as Andrew Dascoli won the 100 meters in 11.4 while Anthony Federico won the mile in 5:03 and Josh Dascoli took the 400 in a time of 54.45, and TJ Barriss won the 800 meters in a time of 2:10.

Other winners for the Rams were Kyle Bradanese in the 200 in a time of 24.65, Ryan Tirabassi in the two mile in a time of 10:43, Chris Salvo in both the 400 meter low hurdles in a time of 62.52 and in the 110 high hurdles in a time of 18:44.

"It was very special to be able to beat Chelsea for the first time since 2007," Shawsheen coach Jay Tildsley said. "The boys were on a mission and they took to Chelsea. From the beginning of the season we had our sights on a league championship and now it's ours to lose."

Tildsley however, knew it was not going to be easy for his team to win that league championship. In fact, it was about to get much harder as the Rams were set to take on another perennial power Greater Lowell on Tuesday.

"Greater Lowell has been the perennial powerhouse year and year out. They have somewhere nearly 19 CAC Championships," Tildsley said. "We are going to their place which is a difficult place to run. Yet, I know our boys will be ready to step up and have their personal bests. We are undefeated, they are undefeated what else can you ask for?"

On the girls side, despite the loss, the Lady Rams got some outstanding individual performances, led by Erin Plunkett who won the discus with a throw of 61'6", the 400 in a time of 66.06 and the 110 high hurdles in a time if 18.38.

Kristen Carroll also had an outstanding day with wins in the long jump at a distance of 13'4", the triple jump at 28'6", the 200 meters in a time if 29.86 and the 400 meter low hurdles in a time of 73.11.

Youth Lax offering McDougall Scholarships

The Wilmington Youth Lacrosse Association (WYLA) is proud to announce that for the third year in a row, the WYLA will be offering two academic scholarships in memory of Paul "Scotty" McDougall, a coach, friend, and founding member of the Wilmington Youth Lacrosse Association. These scholarships are worth $1000 apiece and will be awarded to two graduating seniors in the class of 2011 that will be enrolling in an accredited college or university next fall. There will be a boys' and girls' scholarship offered to former Wilmington Youth Lacrosse players. Scholarship application information can be found on the Wilmington Youth Lacrosse Association website at www.wilmingtonathletics.com/Lacrosse/.

When the scholarship program first began, the WYLA offered $500 scholarships until Sheila McDougall decided to match the scholarship offers last year to double the value of each scholarship.

Wednesday. So you only have two days to prepare and on top of that you don't even know who you are going to play until after the games on Tuesday."

Hickey, who watched the Redmen advance to last year's Super Bowl before losing to Duxbury, also sees the new schedule as a definite positive.

"Our experience at Gillette Stadium last year was fantastic, and I would not change it for anything," Hickey said. "And our hats off to Duxbury who were just an outstanding team. But that said, I really feel like the three games took an emotional toll on us. We had a huge win on Thanksgiving and then a terrific effort to win at Reading in the playoffs. I am not making excuses, but I felt like we were a little banged up heading into the Super Bowl."

Like the proposal itself, a team's placement in a particular division is not set in stone yet, but as of the moment, the league set up as follows for the local teams. Wilmington and Tewksbury would each be in the Division 3 Northeast, where they would each be one of the smaller teams in the division.

Wilmington currently has 471 boys in its school, while Tewksbury has 460. The other teams in their division would include Revere (766), Somerville (723), Salem (637), Masconomet (632), Beverly (580), Dracut (558), Gloucester (548), Danvers (486), Marblehead (478) and Bedford (398).

A case could certainly be made for Wilmington, if not both schools, to be moved to the Division 3 Northwest, which features teams like Woburn, Arlington, Winchester, Burlington, Melrose and Wakefield.

Most of those teams are already Middlesex League rivals of Wilmington and Harrison and the Wildcats may appeal their placement in the Northeast. Harrison has not problem with being one of the smaller teams in his division, as it would pretty much be the same for his team in the Northwest, but he does have a different problem with his team's placement.

"We are where we are, but if I was going to appeal anything it would be to be in the Northwest," Harrison said. "I do not like the idea of playing Tewksbury before Thanksgiving and then playing them on Thanksgiving. When you have played on Thanksgiving for 75 years it means something and it should continue to mean something."

Costabile feels very comfortable with his team in Division 5 North, where they will be the largest school in the division with approximately 786 boys. They will be joined by East Boston (736), Madison park (726), Northeast Regional (717), Whittier Tech (694), Chelsea, (679) Brighton (645), Greater Lawrence (629), Manchester-Essex (227), Bishop Fenwick (211), Austin Prep (210), Matignon (206) and Pope John (144).

"I think what has been proposed is a very comfortable and competitive situation for us," Costabile said. "I also feel like Greater Lowell should be dropped down from Division 4 to us."

A final vote on the realignment is expected some time in early June. The MIAA being the MIAA of course, means that nothing is final until you actually see it happen, but for all intents and purposes it is a done deal.

Even the critics of the proposal are ready to move on and see it put into place.

"We will see how it plays out and we are hoping for the best," Harrison said. "We do hope that if it approved we will get a chance to be heard on appeal, but whatever happens all we can do is make the best of it and go out there and do the best we can."

Tigers edge White Sox in slugfest

Tigers 9, White Sox 8

After scoring six runs in the top of the sixth, Graham Smith retired the side on ten pitches in the bottom of the sixth to lead the Tigers to a 9-8 comeback victory over the White Sox.

The Tigers took an early lead in the first inning when Smith hit a two run homer after Kevin O'Donnell singled to centerfield. The White Sox countered with a run in their half of the first when Jason Spizuocco singled and scored on Chris Greco's base hit. The Tigers made it 3-1 in the second.

After a Jake Fulkerson leadoff double, Ryan Aldrich singled scoring Fulkerson. After that, Greco shut down the Tigers pitching 4.2 innings recording nine strikeouts. Ryan Aldrich pitched a scoreless second inning for the Tigers, but the White Sox tallied five runs in the third inning sending 12 to the plate. Key hits by Connor MacKenzie, JT Murray and Greco lead the offensive explosion.

The Sox added two more in the fourth after Tommy Strow and Spizuocco each singled and scored. In the top of the sixth, with one out, Smith doubled to left center. After Connor Griffin walked, Andrew Dalio's base hit scored Smith and Griffin, which lead to a six run rally culminating with Ryan Aldrich scoring the go ahead run on a swinging by Andrew Dawson.

In a game with so many runs scored, several outstanding defensive plays were made by both teams, but perhaps the best catch of the evening was made by the Tigers' Dalio who made an outstanding diving catch in centerfield in the third inning.

Orioles 14, Twins 4

Matt Rideout's second inning grand slam was the key hit for the Orioles, giving them their first win of the season. Matt had three hits on the night. Other hitters for the Orioles included Dom Pedri (2 hits), Brandon O'Donoghue, Nathan Frye, Jonathan Sears, Billy McEvoy, Justin Trevesani and Christian Robarge. Sears, McEvoy, and Pedri all pitched for the Orioles, striking out eight Twins.

The Twins had hits from Jared Marquard, Kyle Ritson, Riley McCue, and Michael Fiorenza. Ryan Maher, Brendan Ceres, Andrew Sullivan, Ritson, and McCue, all pitched for the Twins striking out 5 Orioles. Niko Barrone made a nice catch in left field for the Twins.

White Sox 12, Yankees 5

Joey Ribiero made his first major league pitching start, and led the White Sox to a 12-5 win over the Yankees in a five inning rain shortened game. Joey went the whole five innings, scattering six hits, striking out five, while only walking three in this super effort.

The Sox offense was led by the big bats of J.T. Murray (3 hits), Darren LeBlanc, and Connor MacKenzie (two hits each) and hits by J.J. Spizuocco, Ribiero, Chris Grecco, Steve Lobao, Tommy Strow, and Kyle Kenyon. The Yankees received hits from Carl Beatrice (two), Tyler Roberts, Jon Simmons, Connor Benoit, and Jack Sweeney.

A's 5, Twins 3

On Friday night at Rotary Park the Athletics defeated the visiting Twins by the score of 5-3. The A's took an early 4-0 lead, but the Twins battled back with three runs in the top of the third inning to make it close. In the bottom of the third, the Athletics plated one more run and from there on it was a pitcher's duel.

The A's sent Danny Gracia, Mike Ducharme and Tom Worub to the mound to face the hot bats of Jared Marquard, Ben Maynard, Steve Bonish, Matt Hansen and Matt Blair. Twins pitchers Brendan Ceres and Riley McCue attempted to stop the Athletics offense led by Bobby Lord, Ryan Collins, David Silveria, Gracia, Ducharme and Worub.

White Sox 5, Red Sox 4

In a great ballgame that featured strong pitching, great hitting, and defense, these two Sox teams battled for seven innings with the White Sox coming out on top 5-4. Connor Mackenzie of the White Sox scattered three hits, one run, while striking out eight in five innings. He was matched by Matt Amentola, and Josh Bartnicki of the Red Sox, who only allowed three hits, two runs, while striking out ten, and walking eight.

The White Sox had the Red Sox down to their last out, with two strikes on Josh Bryant, when big Josh blasted his first homerun of the season to tie the game at two. Chris Grecco struck out the side for the White Sox to finish the sixth and force the game into extra innings.

The White Sox showed no quit, as they came back to score three runs in the top of the seventh, led by Joey McInerny's leadoff walk, J.J. Spizuocco's single, and Grecco's double. Kyle Kenyon came on to pitch for the White Sox in the bottom of the seventh to preserve the win, but the Red Sox were not done battling back. Kenyon struck out the first batter, then Amentola doubled, the next batter struck out, and then Dom Malatesta blasted his first homerun to center field, making the score 5-4. Barnicki singled, but Kenyon came through and struck out the final Red Sox batter to preserve the win.

Barrett and Santini had the other Red Sox hits, while Mackenzie, J.T. Murray, and D.J. DeRose collected the balance of the White Sox hits. Tommy Strow was outstanding in centerfield for the White Sox, as was Grecco at shortstop.

A's 12, Yankees 3

Tom Worub, Bobby Lord, Danny Gracia, David Silveria, Mike Ducharme and Peter Marino all drove in runs leading the Athletics to a 12-3 victory over the Yankees on Saturday afternoon. Jason Dunn, Jon Simmons and Danny Woods pitched valiantly for the Yankees in an attempt to hold back the A's potent offense. Lord, Dan Bresnahan and Silveria took the hill for the Athletics, facing the tough bats of Connor Benoit, Cam Saragosa and Woods.

Tigers 2, Orioles 1

Pitching and defense were the words of the day as the Tigers edged the Orioles 2-1. Oriole pitchers Jonathan Sears and Billy McEvoy held the Tigers to three hits while recording eleven strikeouts. Tiger pitchers Richie McNamara, Ryan Aldrich, Bailey Smith and Connor Griffin allowed 5 hits while striking out eight.

The Orioles took the lead in the second inning after McAvoy and Brandon O'Donoghue singled and McEvoy scored on a Nathan Frye base hit. The Tigers kept it close when McNamara tagged an Oriole runner out at home on a passed ball. The Tigers tied the game in the bottom of the second when Andrew Dalio scored on a pass ball/ wild pitch.

The game stayed tied 1-1 into the sixth inning as the pitchers and defense made play after play. The Tigers' Ryan Bulter led off the bottom of the sixth with a walk. With one out, Andrew Dawson's infield hit advanced Butler to third. After a walk to McNamara, Butler scored on a passed ball.

"In It To End It"

North Reading family battles breast cancer

By PAUL FEELY

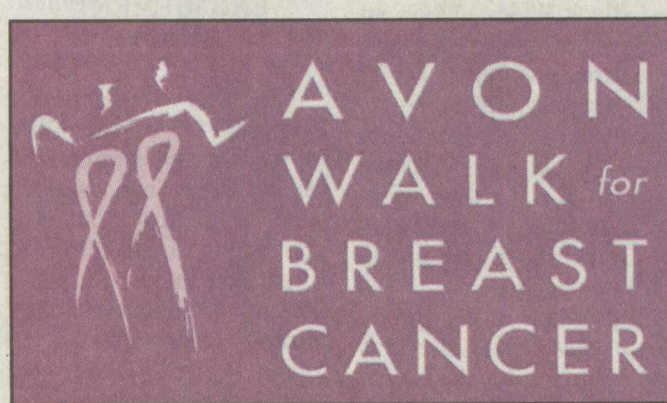

When it comes to the fight against breast cancer, the Finocchiaro family of North Reading is in it to end it.

This weekend, North Reading residents Sharon, Richard, and Natalie Finocchiaro will join thousands of women and men in the Avon Walk for Breast Cancer Boston, raising funds and awareness that will help defeat breast cancer and support those facing the disease.

Spurred by his wife's year-long battle with the disease, Richard and daughter Natalie will participate in the non-competitive walk event as part of "Team BellaDonna," a New England group that has raised $330,000 for the cause over the past 9 years.

For anyone whose life has been touched in some way by breast cancer, Sharon Finocchiaro's story is a familiar one.

"Like most women, I never thought that this would happen to me," said Sharon. "It happens to someone else...not me...it happens to someone else's wife, someone else's mother, daughter, sister or friend. Unfortunately, breast cancer knocked on my door on July 28, 2011. On August 1, 2012, our 30th wedding anniversary, my husband and I are sitting in the surgeon's office and listening to her tell us that I need one year of chemotherapy, surgery and seven weeks of radiation.

Needless to say, we were stunned - we are hearing her but the words are really not penetrating."

After getting the news, the Finocchiaros immediately sought out a family member who had battled this disease - twice.

"When we left the surgeon's office, Richard said to me when we get home, we have to call Donna," said Sharon.

Donna is Donna Bramante Walk to S-4

Movie Reviews

"DARK SHADOWS" JUST OK

by Paul Feely

JOHNNY DEPP STARS AS A VAMPIRE in the movie "Dark Shadows." The film is based on a popular TV show from the late 1960s. It resembles a comedy-horror hybrid, but lacks the real humor of comedy and real chills of a horror movie.

"DARK SHADOWS"
GRADE: ***

When director Tim Burton and actor Johnny Depp work together on a film, more often than not the results are worth watching. But not every Burton/Depp collaboration is must-see movie-making at its best - and their latest, "Dark Shadows," falls into the latter category.

"Shadows" isn't horrible, but it falls short of expectations viewers have when they head to a movie from two of Hollywood's top talents.

The film, based on a popular TV show from the late 1960s, resembles a comedy-horror hybrid - but lacks the real humor of a good comedy and chills of an effective horror movie. In trying to walk the tightrope between two genres, "Shadows" stumbles into a murky middle ground.

Depp plays a vampire for the first time in his storied career - 18th-century blood-sucker Barnabas Collins. Barnabas acquires his fang-toothed curse after spurning lover Angelique Bouchard (Eva Green of "Casino Royale"), who turns out to be a very jealous witch.

Angelique's spells cause Barnabas to stay buried for the better part of two centuries. The year is 1972 when he finally rises from his coffin.

The once-proud fishing town of Collinsport, Maine, that Barnabas' family established, is now essentially run by Angelique, whose witchery has made her all but immortal. And Barnabas' family home, Collinwood Manor, has grown decrepit.

Those who reside in the mansion are all that's left of the Collins family: matriarch Elizabeth (Michelle Pfeiffer); Elizabeth's brother, Roger (Jonny Lee Miller); teen malcontent Carolyn (Chloe Grace Moretz); and youngster David (Gulliver McGrath).

Burton's trademark style is evident throughout, and watching Depp (excellent as usual) portray a blast-from-the-past vampire is entertaining, at least. The film also boasts a nice performance by Green and strong production values, like make-up and set design.

And the filmmakers have some fun with the time period, including a soundtrack with great music from the early '70s.

At times the movie is amusing, and it looks great, but "Dark Shadows" is not the Depp/Burton duo's best cinematic effort.

"THE AVENGERS"
GRADE: ****

Few films in recent memory have generated as much hype - and fan anticipation - as "The Avengers." Living up to that hype may have seemed impossible, but in so many ways it does - and surpasses even the wildest expectations of diehard comic book fan boys.

Marvel's The Avengers is the super hero team up of a lifetime, featuring iconic Marvel heroes Iron Man, The Incredible Hulk, Thor, Captain America, Hawkeye and Black Widow. When an unexpected enemy emerges that threatens global safety and security, Nick Fury, Director of the international peacekeeping agency known as S.H.I.E.L.D., finds himself in need of a team to pull the world back from the brink of disaster.

Attempting to pay off on the promise made the first time Samuel L. Jackson's Avengers-assembling Nick Fury appeared during the credits of 2008's "Iron Man" (and subsequent appearances in "The Incredible Hulk," "Iron Man 2," "Thor" and "Captain America"), it also is a movie fans have been breathlessly awaiting.

Big, loud, awesome and eye-popping, writer-director Joss Whedon's film is a summertime treat that delivers on all that it promises. Nick Fury assembles the Avengers to defeat a common foe borrowed from "Thor," armed with a powerful artifact borrowed from "Captain America" - and they proceed to fight in spectacular fashion.

Above all, Whedon remembers to have fun along the way, providing the audience with satisfying action sequences and more one-line zingers than most superhero franchises can claim in their entire lifespan.

This is not a brooding,

Christopher Nolan-style 'Batman' film. There's no time for that - with seven major superheroes, and one supervillain, to fit on the screen, there's little time for any meaningful character development.

This is a movie that is at its best when its heroes are either cracking skulls or cracking jokes. Whedon tries to weave shreds of a back story around the film's two least-known characters, Black Widow (Scarlett Johansson) and Hawkeye (Jeremy Renner). They're fascinating to be sure, with back stories ripe for development, but there's no opportunity to get into them in this film.

For those who have kept up with the other Marvel films, "The Avengers" is a nice payoff to a unique and ambitious filmmaking strategy - and one whose blueprint can be counted on to change the way major studios approach their superhero franchises for years to come.

"THE FIVE-YEAR ENGAGEMENT"
GRADE: **

"The Five-Year Engagement" is the latest movie starring and co-written by Jason Segel, and it's good, if slightly too long. The humor is definitely R-rated, and there's an air of despair, or melancholy, that almost overwhelms the movie in its last act, but strong lead performances by Segel and Emily Blunt save it in the end.

Segel and Blunt play a couple who, as the movie begins, have been together a year and are now ready to get married. But before they can, life keeps getting in the way, especially when Blunt is offered a job in Michigan, far from their San Francisco base. Years drag on, other conflicts arise, and the audience is left to wonder if the engagement is as far as these two will ever get.

Their story includes a lot of slapstick, confusion and considerable angst. Their performances are complemented by a cast of TV-comedy stars, particularly from NBC's Thursday lineup: Chris Pratt ("Parks and Recreation"), Mindy Kaling ("The Office"), Alison Brie ("Community") and Chris Parnell ("30 Rock") are on hand, along with the likes of David Paymer, Mimi Kennedy and a briefly seen Molly Shannon.

At Longwood Place at Reading Pleasure Island remembered May 23

HAWKS POINT LIGHTHOUSE in Clipper Cove

Wakefield resident, Robert McLaughlin, author of Pleasure Island, an Images of America book, will bring the popular 1960's theme park to life on Wednesday, May 23rd at 6:00 pm at Longwood Place at Reading, 75 Pearl Street.

Part of the "lecture series at Longwood," a free informational series for the community, the Pleasure Island retrospective will include facts, photographs and anecdotes about the tourist attraction, once billed as Boston's answer to Disneyland.

McLaughlin, co-founder of Friends of Pleasure Island, will tell the park's fascinating story from its revolutionary conception to its ambitious construction, lively tourist years and ultimate financial collapse.

The eighty-acre Pleasure Island site, now occupied by Edgewater Office Park, was home to the bustling Wakefield theme park for 11 seasons, from 1959 to 1969.

In its heyday, Pleasure Island attracted throngs of tourists eager to ride Old Smoky, interact with pirates at Captain Kidd's Cove or dine at the Hood Barn. Celebrity guests such as singer Ricky Nelson drew large crowds.

Although a well-attended destination spot, Pleasure Island was expensive to operate and never generated enough revenue during the brief New England outdoor season. An entertainment enterprise ahead of its time, Pleasure Island closed in 1969.

"Our residents and staff have fond memories of Pleasure Island and look forward to Mr. McLaughlin's talk," said Longwood Executive Director Frank Petras, extending an open invitation to the community.

Longwood Place at Reading is an assisted living community of 86 modern apartments staffed by health-care professionals dedicated to helping residents live actively and independently. Recognized by the MA Historical Society for its building preservation, the former Pearl Street School location offers modern living with historic elegance.

Please check your local "Daily Times Chronicle" for daily updates.

THE MORE THINGS CHANGE (STONEHAM)

"The town's Board of Selectmen recently authorized Town Administrator David Ragucci to spend up to $10,000 to begin exploring the possibility of using the Stoneham Oaks golf course off of Montvale Avenue for another purpose," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"In a unanimous vote, with Selectmen Richard Gregorio abstaining to avoid an appearance of a conflict-of-interest, the board sanctioned the release of the $10,000 to assess the value of the par 3 course and a 13-acre parcel of town-owned land on the Wakefield line.

"The funding will be pulled from a $50,000 gift from Burlington's The Gutierrez Company, which granted Stoneham the money as part of its negotiations with local officials during the permitting phase for the stalled Langwood Commons project near Spot Pond.

"According to Ragucci, the Stoneham Oaks course, which last year lost money amidst a difficult weather season, has been performing poorly for quite some time, despite being located in a highly attractive area in town ...

"I'd like to look at reusing the Stoneham Oaks course for a purpose other than a golf course," explained the Town Administrator, who didn't rule out the possibility of studying other recreational uses.

"Because the Stoneham Oaks golf course has been designated as a recreational space, which received state and federal funding, Stoneham will need to petition both the state legislature and U.S. authorities, if it were to sell the space for private use..."

"The possibility of finding another use for the Stoneham Oaks course is hardly new in town, as local officials have considered that possibility since at least 2005..."

A 'WIN-WIN' SITUATION (WILMINGTON)

"The Annual Town Election realized two new School Committee representatives. MJ Byrnes and Manny Mulas won the election in all precincts defeating incumbent Mario Marchese," notes the Wilmington "Town Crier."

"Mulas barely won precinct one beating incumbent

Episcopal Church, 79 Central Street in Stoneham.

Luncheon will be served starting at 11 a.m. with either lobster salad or chicken salad rolls, beverage, and home-made dessert.

There will be a large variety of commercially grown plants from local garden centers and perennials.

Marchese by only a single vote, but he garnered more votes than either of his opponents in precincts two through four. Byrnes had the most votes in precincts five and six....

"Both Byrnes and Mulas said they were excited and happy to have each other as committee members.

"I think it's a win-win situation," Byrnes said. She referred to the learning curve that Marchese mentioned in the Candidates' Night debate at WCTV on April 10. "We are both first-timers and we can support each other..."

'MULTI-SECTORAL' (WAKEFIELD)

"The Wakefield Board of Health conducted their annual re-organization and they voted Elaine Silva as Chairman, Ann McGonigle Santos as Vice-Chairman and Laurel Gourville as Secretary," notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Kara Showers the newly named Mass in Motion Coordinator introduced the essentials of the new Federal grant that awarded $1.57 million to Middlesex County with $60,000 for 5 years for Melrose and Wakefield through September of 2016. The focus of the grant is to promote healthy eating, active living and tobacco-free living.

"The current Mass in Motion: Eat Better, Move More program consists of an increase in Community Assessment for the first year with the next 5 years to create a diverse multi-sectoral partnership, increased accessibility, availability, affordability of healthful foods in the community.

"They will immediately work with the farmers market this season and then work on the healthy neighborhood market program, the healthy restaurant dining program and the school dining services. The promotion of increased opportunities for physical activity in the communities includes safe school routes for walking and bike riding and mixed-use development with active transportation. Finally, a component will be devoted to increasing smoke-free housing units.

"The Board welcomed Kara back and suggested that she contact the Rail to Trail Committee to join in with efforts to improve bike and walking trails. Kara is expected to join the Board with 2 tables at the Festival by the Lake on June 9. Information about Mass in Motion, Tobacco Programs, safe biking with helmets and tick and insect prevention will be provided..."

•MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA:

Prior to Justin Verlander, who was the last American League pitcher to win both the regular season MVP and Cy Young Awards in a single season?

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•Senior Ashley Zielinski (Manchester, N.H.) and sophomore Antoinette Toussaint (Somerville, Mass.) helped compile 80 points to lead the UMass Lowell women's track and field team to the Northeast-10 Conference Championship at Southern Connecticut State's Jess Dow Complex.

The title was UMass Lowell's sixth outdoor championship since the Conference recognized track and field in 2002, and third crown in four years. The River Hawks also captured the NE-10 indoor title in February.

UMass Lowell compiled 189 points and edged out the host Owls, the runner-up with 180 points. Stonehill took fourth with 126 points while American International College placed fourth with 86 points and New Haven fifth with 79 points.

Saint Rose (54) placed sixth and was followed by Adelphi (37), Bentley (34) and Merrimack (28).

UMass Lowell captured five events and crowned 20 Northeast-10 All-Conference athletes. The top two places in each event earned all-conference status.

"We really overachieved overall as team," said head coach Gary Gardner, who was named the NE-10 Coach of the Year. "Whenever the meet comes down to the 4X400 for a championship everyone's stress level goes way up. I couldn't be prouder of this group no one ever game up and fought all the way to the end."

UMass Lowell captured the 4X400 meter relay, the last event of the day, in 3:53.96, defeating Southern Connecticut, which took second in 3:55.62. Leading the way was junior Shannon Cunningham (Foxboro, Mass.), who ran a 59.9-second split while junior Nicole Giaquinto (Winthrop, Mass.) followed in 56.7 seconds, freshman Shaniece Cola (Lowell, Mass.) in 59.1 and Zielinski the anchor in 58.9.

Zielinski and Toussaint performed spectacularly individually, each competing in five events - scoring in all - and winning one individual event. Zielinski won the 100 meter hurdles in 14.34 seconds, and led three River Hawks in the top seven places.

Sophomore Elisabeth Monty (Charlton, Mass.) placed third in 14.84 seconds while SOPHOMORE STEPHANIE WALKER (TEWKSBURY, MASS.) placed seventh in 16.07.

Zielinski finished runner-up in the 100 meter dash in 12.19 seconds while freshman Taelour Murphy (Salisbury, Mass.) took fifth in 12.59 seconds. Zielinski also took fourth in the 200 meter dash with a time of 25.43 seconds.

Toussaint ran a 2:22 leg on UMass Lowell's 4X800 meter relay team, which placed second in 9:32.78, just behind Stonehill (9:24.99).

SOPHOMORE KARIE JUDGE (TEWKSBURY, MASS.) led off with a time of 2:18 while junior Kelly Walton (Nahant, Mass.) followed in 2:24; and freshman Cassie Harding (Amesbury, Mass.) in 2:28.

Judge also earned a personal-best in the 800 with a time of 2:15.61, good for sixth place.

•UMass Lowell placed fourth in the Novice Four race and fifth in the varsity four to highlight the New England Rowing Championship on the Quinsigamond River.

UMass Lowell placed 19th among 27 teams in the final standings with 22.0 points, leading all Division II teams. Williams College won the overall women's title with 102.0 points while Holy Cross took second with 75.7 points and Wellesley College third with 75.0 points.

Bates (71.8) and Trinity (71.0) rounded out the top five. UMass Lowell's novice fours placed fourth among 12 boats in 8:03.64, down from its time of 8:21.34 in the trials (sixth place), behind Amherst (7:54.15), Merrimack (7:59.34) and Connecticut College (8:03.58). Bowdoin (8:10.08) placed fifth while Wesleyan (8:16.05) took sixth.

Leading UMass Lowell's novices was freshman coxswain Rachel Paquette (Dracut, Mass.) along with freshmen Jenna Bueno (Methuen, Mass.), Erinn McLaughlin (Lowell, Mass.), KATIE JUDD (LYNNFIELD, MASS.) and Meredith Swan (Gloucester, Mass.).

•No. 4 Caldwell College scored two runs in the third inning and held firm to defeat No. 5 UMass Lowell, 2-1, in the NCAA Division II Softball Tournament East Regional semifinal round at Yale University's DeWitt Family Field.

With the loss, UMass Lowell ends its season with a 34-18 record.

UMass Lowell suffered a 5-4 setback Saturday morning against Southern Connecticut. Four of the Regional's first five games were one-run decisions.

"I think that speaks to the strength of our conference," said head coach Sean Cotter. "There is little separating us in this region. I think Southern Connecticut and Caldwell played slightly better than us. Each made one more play than we did. But that's the postseason in every sport."

Caldwell improved to 39-15.

"I think we turned the corner a year ago," said Cotter. "I think we took a big step to being a pretty good regional program and we're close to being a god national program. I think Caldwell and C.W. Post are the two standard bearers."

"I'm so proud of our team, especially our seniors," he added. "We really played great."

Caldwell jumped out to a 2-

0 lead in the third inning when freshman C Alyssa Calderon singled to score freshman CF Kristen Knorr, who was hit by a pitch and advanced to second on a single by freshman 1B Briana Gaspich.

FRESHMAN PITCHER COURTNEY LANFRANCHI (BURLINGTON, MASS.) took the loss as she scattered five hits, two earned runs and two walks over three innings

Walk from S-1

Indelicato (formerly of Stoneham and Reading, now a New Hampshire resident), Richard's cousin and a breast cancer survivor.

"She had this disease, twice, when she was just a very young mother with two small children," said Sharon. "She is one of the main reasons that we are doing the Avon Walk for Breast Cancer."

Donna is the team captain for Team BellaDonna, who along with her mother Bobbi has managed to bring in $330,000 in the last nine years.

"When we called Donna and told her what was going on with me, she and Bobbi immediately put us at ease and told us that we were going to be able to handle this," said Sharon. "She said that we would be hearing so much information and to take notes when we were talking to the doctors, and she was insistent with us getting a second opinion."

Sharon said her husband was also there throughout to support her.

"Richard was like my protector and guardian angel through this whole process," said Sharon. "During the initial doctor visits, several tests, chemo and radiation...always bombarding the doctors with questions."

Richard and Natalie aspire to walk 40 miles over two days while taking part in the Avon Walk Boston, May 19-20. Sharon, who is nearly at the end of her difficult treatment year, is not well enough to walk yet, but will volunteer for the event for two days as part of the hospitality crew.

The family effort began in January, and has resulted in the trio raising over $12,000 thus far as a family effort. Once people started learning about this family's struggles, and their dedication to helping others, the donations started pouring in - from business associates, family members, and even folks they do not personally know. The crusade has helped them find purpose and "pay it forward" as Sharon remarks.

Sharon said the treatment for the disease has been difficult at times.

"There are some very dark days during chemo when you are just 'by yourself' and crying, and crying...sometimes I would cry because I would feel bad for my family," said Sharon. "Because of the physical effects that chemo gives you such as hair loss...it makes you almost afraid to go out in public because, unfortunately, people do stare at you and they give you that pity look or the 'oh my god' look. Some people - and I'm talking about people that I have known for quite some time - have shunned me and look away, hoping that I would not engage in a conversation with them."

"I can understand that to a point because they would fear that they would upset me or embarrass me or somehow embarrass themselves," said Sharon. "Unfortunately, cancer will always be that socially awkward disease, nobody wants to look you in the eye. People want to know how you are doing, but most people don't want to be the one to ask you. They hope that they can hear it from someone else."

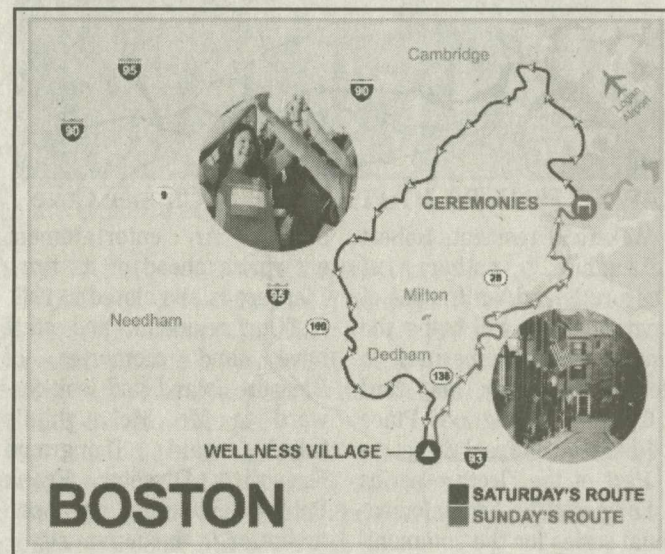

Sharon said one of the hardest aspects of the disease, at least initially, was telling people she loved that she had it.

"When I told my daughter, Natalie - it wasn't easy to tell to slip to 14-9. Senior pitcher Elyssa Boris (Gardner, Mass.) replaced Lanfranchi in the fourth inning and allowed one hit and a walk.

•ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: Dennis Eckersley, in 1992, pitching with the Oakland Athletics.

•DO YOU KNOW SOMETHING WE DON'T? If you have information about a local athlete that you would like to see appear in this column, please email it to readingchronicle@comcast.net, or mail it to: Paul Feely, Middlesex East Sports, P.O. Box 240, Reading, Ma., 01867, or call Paul at 781-944-2200.

her but we couldn't put it off," said Sharon. "She is in the medical field herself so I knew she could handle it...it was hard to tell my sons, Joseph and Stephen, because they are young men, and I knew that they would feel helpless and not know how to help me with this. I haven't seen my sons cry since they were little boys. I think that it is harder on the family members than it is on the person that has the cancer."

"From the time that I found out I told Richard and my kids that I didn't want special treatment and that I wanted a 'business as usual routine'" said Sharon. "I wanted my husband to go fishing when he wanted to and I definitely wanted Natalie to finish school and that if and when I needed help I would ask for it. I was adamant about not becoming a 'Debbie Downer' about having breast cancer. Let's just go about our daily routine because I did not want the cancer to take over everyone's life. We all have to go forward and do the best that we can each day."

Sharon thought that was the toughest part of the disease - until she began receiving treatment.

"On the first day of chemo, I walked into the kitchen at 6:30 in the morning and looked at my husband Richard, and told him that I couldn't do this, I didn't want to do this...please don't make me go," said Sharon. "We just hugged each other...we cried like two little children...I hadn't cried like that since I was a child, the scared kind of crying...when you keep gasping for a breath of air every few seconds and tears were rolling down like my eyes were a faucet that could not be turned off."

"Richard looked at me and said 'You have to do this. If I could do this for you, I would, but I can't and you promised me that you would be with me for another 30 years...you promised...please do this for us,'" and I hugged him. I knew I was going, of course I was going to go and do chemo...but also knew I was never going to be alone in this...it is truly a family disease."

"Four chemo treatments every other week, then 12 weekly treatments and then surgery, then 7 weeks of daily radiation and now I'm on a regiment of once every three weeks. Richard has truly seen me at my worst - no hair, no eyebrows or eyelashes and this man tells me that I look awesome...I truly looked like a hard-boiled egg. There are moments when I was crying, Richard would come over to me and do his very best to make me laugh or tease me into a laughing fit. After 31 years of marriage this guy still chases me around the dining room table while I'm screaming with laughter."

She now feels one of the toughest parts of the battle is behind her.

"So now with the surgery and radiation behind me, I hardly ever cry anymore and can definitely see light at the end of the tunnel - my family and I just really need to 'pay-it-forward,'" said Sharon. "We just want to be able to give some women some hope for the future. We want women to be able to go on with their daily life and not have to be consumed with worry about co-pays, medical bills, transportation, and hospital costs. This is what we are walking for - for the future of these women that will be diagnosed tomorrow."

Team BellaDonna is comprised of members from New Hampshire North Reading, Boxford, Middleton, and Winchester. The team has three generations of crusaders and three survivors among its ranks.

"Thanks to thousands of people like the Finocchiaro family and Team BellaDonna, we are able to save lives by providing significant funds for vital breast cancer research as well as access to care, screening, support services and education," said Carol Kurzig, president of the Avon Foundation for Women, the public charity that produces the events. "The Avon Foundation for Women is 'in it to end it' for a tenth Avon Walk for Breast Cancer season. We are truly inspired by our participants' passion and enthusiasm."

The Avon Walk Boston is one of nine weekend walks taking place across the country in 2012, and tens of thousands will take part.

To support the Team BellaDonna fundraising campaign, donations can be made at www.avonwalk.org. Funds raised are awarded by the Avon Foundation for Women, a 501(c)(3) public charity, to help make sure anyone facing a breast cancer diagnosis gets the care they need regardless of their ability to pay, and to help fund breast cancer research. Recipe gives a tantalizing taste to Grilled Vegetable Napoleons

Hot, lazy summer days are too precious to waste in the kitchen. Enhance your outdoor leisure time with a visit to a local farmer's stand or market to choose fresh vegetables for this colorful recipe.

GRILLED VEGETABLE NAPOLEONS

Ingredients

Substitute or add other vegetables as you wish. Some nice additions might be new potatoes or red peppers. Although the stacks are attractive and easy to serve, you may also arrange the grilled vegetables and cheese in a casserole.

- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 1 large eggplant, cut in 12 slices (1/3-inch thick)
- 3 medium zucchinis, cut in 24 slices (1/4-inch thick)
- 3 large tomatoes, cut in 6 slices (1/3-inch thick)
- 3 medium red onions, cut in 12 slices (1/3-inch thick)
- 3/4 cup ricotta cheese
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 2 teaspoons fresh thyme, chopped
- 1/2 lb. mozzarella cheese, sliced 1/4-inch thick
- 6 sprigs fresh rosemary

Directions

Preheat barbecue and set on low. Brush vegetables with olive oil, season with salt and pepper, and grill slowly until tender, turning once. Transfer the vegetables to a tray, arranging them in a single layer, and cover tightly with plastic wrap. The vegetables may be grilled a day in advance, and refrigerated after cooling. Bring the vegetables back to room temperature before proceeding.

Assembly

Stir together the ricotta, thyme, salt, and pepper in a small bowl. Place one slice of eggplant on a lightly oiled grill sheet or foil pan. Spread 1 tablespoon of the ricotta mixture over the eggplant. Cover with 2 slices of zucchini, 1 slice of onion, 1 slice of mozzarella, 1 slice of tomato, and 2 slices of zucchini. Spread 1 tablespoon of the ricotta mixture over the onion, and top with another slice of eggplant. Repeat this procedure with the remaining vegetables to make 5 more stacks.

Insert a wooden skewer through the centre of each stack to create a hole from top to bottom. Remove the bottom leaves from each rosemary sprig, leaving one inch of leaves on the top. Insert 1 sprig into the centre hole in each napoleon, and return to the barbecue.

Heat for about 10 minutes on low, or until mozzarella is melted and vegetables are warmed through.

Simple ways to reduce fatigue

Fatigue can indicate a host of things. Men and women who are overworked feel fatigue, as do men and women whose diet is low on nutrition. Fatigue can also be the result of a medical condition, which only sheds light on how important it is for men and women dealing with fatigue to speak to their physician about their condition.

In addition to working with a physician to fight fatigue, there are steps men and women can take to reduce fatigue and start feeling more energetic.

* Get off the couch. A sedentary lifestyle will only make it more likely that you will feel fatigued. But including daily exercise as part of your routine will not only boost your energy levels, but also improve circulation, increase your metabolism and relieve tension, an especially valuable benefit for overworked men and women.

* Get some sleep. The notion that sleep can help fight fatigue might sound simple, but a good night's sleep can elevate energy levels throughout the day, helping the body rest and recover. Failing to get sufficient sleep, which many people find is seven to eight hours per night, can turn today's fatigue into tomorrow's fatigue, and so on.

* Address any sources of stress. Fatigue can be a side effect of stress. Many men and women find work is their primary source of stress, but finances and relationship issues can be stressful as well. Whatever the source of your stress, address it and don't allow it to fester. If it's work, then look for ways to make work less stressful, whether it's telecommuting more often or sharing more responsibilities. Exercise is a great way to relieve stress, but men and women fighting stress-related fatigue should address the source of the stress as well.

* Reduce sugar intake. Sugar might provide an initial burst of energy, especially for people battling fatigue. However, once your blood sugar levels begin to drop, which can happen rather quickly, you will notice a rather steep decline in your energy level. To successfully combat fatigue, avoid relying on quick fixes that only offer temporary relief.

* Alter your eating habits. If you're a proponent of three large meals per day but are battling fatigue, then it might be time to alter your eating habits. Replace the large meals with smaller meals, and snack throughout the day to maintain high energy levels. Just be sure to consume healthy snacks, and don't forget to drink water throughout the day. Doing so will fight dehydration, which can also cause fatigue.

Ranch-style Grayling a natural for entertaining family living

Families that like to entertain will appreciate the airy spaciousness of the ranch-style Grayling. An expansive, open great room with high, vaulted ceilings fills the center of the home and a large portion of the rear as well.

Windows line the back wall, bathing the area in light. The bayed nook is brighter still, and more natural light spills in through skylights located between the eating bar and the fireplace. This fireplace is open on two sides, allowing people to enjoy its flames and warmth from almost anywhere in the great room.

In the kitchen, there's ample counter space for two or more cooks to combine culinary efforts. A skylight illuminates the work island, and the stove has work space on both sides. Working at the stove, you can gaze across a long eating bar into the rest of the great room. Storage is generous too, augmented by a walk-in pantry.

Utilities, and a deep sink, are convenient, tucked in a pass-through space that connects the home's interior with a two-car garage. The garage has room for a workbench, and plenty of storage space to boot. A powder room, adjacent to the utility room, is convenient to family living spaces and garage. A central bathroom serves the secondary bedrooms.

Double doors open into the Grayling's elegant owners' suite. Its bay window could become a cozy window seat, or
